R. R. COMMISSIONERS APPOINTED

UBMIT REPORT ON INVESTIGATION OF COTTON PRICES

UE TO GENERAL DEFLATION AND BUYERS' STRIKE IS CONCLUSION.

RICE DEFLATION OF WORLD-WIDE NATURE

pparent Improvement In Methods Of Trading On Future Exchanges.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26. — The harp fall in cotton prices which gan in April, 1920, and continued r more than a year was due to e general deflation, the great increase in high priced inventories d the subsequent "buyers' strike" o federal trade commission set rth in a report submitted today congress. The price inquiry was ade by the commission in accordnce with a resolution adopted by ongress last March and the prest preliminary report, it was said, ould be followed by another dealng particularly with operators of e cotton exchange.

The post-war price deflation the ommission described as of world ide character affecting the comodities in this country in varying egrees and cotton, for which rices had gone higher before the reak, more than any other in the w level of prices reached. The ost important and immediate facors in the decline, however, the ommission found to be "the mark- increase in supplies and dease in demand." The report ent into market conditions durg the war period and immediately ter which brought cotton prices to the peak in April, 1920. Supy and demand were found to have en the controlling factors roughout with the high price vel prevailing in 1919-20 attriuted in part to the expectation at there would be a world shortge of cotton. In the subsequent covery, cotton prices "in money" nce August, 1921, have been above e 1913 level, the report set forth, nd measured in commodities either slightly below or more recently considerably above the real exchange values of cotton in that ear." While it thus appears that otton prices, compared with the eneral level of prices, are not depressed at the present time, this oes not mean, the report said, that otton prices "are at a level which ffords a compensation to the rower which justifies such an exensive use of land and labor in its roduction."

Cotton Futures Trading

Turning to a discussion of cotton utures trading under the cotton utures act, the commission found hat the law "apparently has brought about a marked improvement in the methods of trading on uture exchanges." As to the proision of the seller's option in futures contracts, however, permitting delivery of any one or more of 10 grades, with a price adjustment to equalize, the commission expressed the opinion that the "effect of these options on the part of he seller is generally to make the utures price lower than it probably would be if a corresponding uyer's option were used instead." Reporting that according to the st data available for the last ree years future prices have been enerally lower than spot prices, e commission stated that the atter of fundamental importance connection with the exercise of seller's option was the relation ween the two prices. While er factors were recognized as tributing to the absence of parbetween future and spot prices, situation generally was cited as ing a "probable tendency to afunfavorably the prices receivy producers of cotton."

is logically would be the case, ommission said, because of the that "spot prices are largely d on the basis of futures and bly they are absolutely inced by them to some extent."

commission reports that the e of cotton future trading in last four crop years ranged about 104,000,000 bales in 1 to about 124,000,000 bales in 2. Roughly stated, the reid, the volume in 1918-19 was times the size of the crop, in 9 nearly eleven times, that 20-21 a little less than eight in 1921-22 over fifteen and f times.

FILE STATEMENT AND EVIDENCE IN M'NARY PROTEST

PROTEST NOMINATION TO BE COMPTROLLER OF CURRENCY.

SENT BY CHAIRMAN OF SENATE SUB-COMMITTEE

Gives Information In Regard to His Banking Transactions In New Mexico.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—A detailed statement of charges and evidence against James G. McNary, New Mexico and Texas banker, nominated to be comptroller of currency, was sent to President Harding today by Senator Couzens, Republican, Michigan, chairman of the senate banking sub-committee which has been considering Mr. McNary's nomination. Committee members declared the statement was not to be regarded as a formal report, although the committee had cognizance of its commission and it was of such a character as to present to the president the question of the advisibility of insisting upon Mr. McNary's confirmation.

The statement was said to detail evidence secured by the sub-committee from bank examiners and others in regard to the banking transactions of Mr. McNary and other officers of the First National Bank of El Paso, of which Mr. McNary was president. Loans made frm the funds of the bank and from other sources to Mr. McNary were passed under review, including its correspondence on the subject between the bank and the comptroller's office in Washington.

One banking transaction of Mr. McNary's under review involved a loan of $114,000 said to have been made to him by a New York bank on a Mexican sugar deal. Mr. McNary was reported to have insisted before the committee that this was a personal and private transaction.

Whether President Harding will withdraw the nomination in view of the evidence contained in Senator Couzens' statement remained uncertain today but the general prediction among senators was that in any case confirmation before the end of the session would be impossible.

DUDLEY DEFEATS "KLAN" CANDIDATE MAJORITY 2,120

EL PASO, Feb. 26.—State Senator R. M. Dudley was elected mayor of El Paso by a majority of 2120 votes, according to complete returns from Saturday's election. He headed the anti-Ku Klux Klan ticket and carried all anti-klan candidates into office with him. The total vote was 13,024, the largest ever cast in a city election here. Senator Dudley said he would resign from the state senate soon.

DUDLEY IS WELCOMED WITH GREAT APPLAUSE

AUSTIN, Feb. 26.—Senator R. M. Dudley, of El Paso, was presented to the senate on his return to the upper house this morning after being nominated as democratic candidate for mayor of El Paso last Saturday. Dudley was received with great aplause. He spoke briefly to the body. Dudley stated that he does not intend to resign from the senate until after the regular session.

MAN ARRESTED SAYS HE WAS PAID BY KLAN AT RATE OF $10 PER DAY

EAST ST. LOUIS, ILL, Feb. 26.—Chief of Police Mulconnery today announced that Ben O. Morrow, who was arrested at midnight Saturday on a charge of distributing anonymous election campaign matter, has signed a statement under oath that he was employed by the Ku Klux Klan at $10 a day as a "precinct committeeman."

Chief Mulconnery stated he has information that the klan plans to "carry off the election at any cost."

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch has been publishing articles that the klan is supporting a "slate" in tomorrow's municipal primary at which candidates for the mayoralty and four commissionerships will be selected and that those endorsed by the klan have pledged themselves to appoint only protestants and klansmen to office.

Morrow's alleged confession, Chief Mulconnery announced, stated the klan has a committeeman for each of the sixty-one precincts in the city, and gives a list of names of alleged members of the klan.

Morrow has been released under bond. The charge against him carries a maximum penalty of a $500 fine and six months' imprisonment. He was arrested with two others and the anonymous circulars urged the defeat of 18 candidates said to be either Catholics and supported by Catholics.

FORMER U. S. SENATOR DIES AT OAKLAND, CAL.

OAKLAND, CAL., Feb. 26.—Former United States Senator George C. Perkins, 84, died at his home here today.

TWO SMALL GIRLS VICTIMS ASSAULT; ONE IS MISSING

ARE KIDNAPED FROM FRONT OF HOME ON SATURDAY.

SIX YEAR OLD GIRL HAS NOT BEEN LOCATED

Sister, Age Five, Tells Of Treatment Received From Accused.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 26.—Search for six year old Lillian Gilmore, who with her five year old sister, Dorothy, was kidnapped from in front of her home Saturday, driven in an automobile to the outskirts of the city and assaulted, was continued today.

The police had orders to examine all vacant houses, lots, freight cars and any other place where the child or her body might be concealed. The Delaware river and nearby streams also were being dredged.

The condition of Dorothy, who after having ben put out of the motor car in an isolated section, made her way home and identified a suspect as the man who had carried her and her sister off, was reported today as improved.

Dorothy's story led the police to believe her sister was killed. She said the man first attacked Lillian, threw her body "on the ice," then drove farther on and assaulted her. Lillian's body was covered with blood and her eyes were closed, Dorothy said.

Wylie Morgan, 38, identified by Dorothy as the kidnaper, is wanted in Texas on a similar charge, the police said. He was employed in a hat factory and is said to have come to this city from Maud, Texas.

Blood stains have been found on Morgan's clothing and on the rear seat of his automobile, the police assert.

HOUSE BANKING COMMITTEE HAS NEW FARM BILL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—The house banking committee was prepared to make a formal report today on the composite farm credits bill framed after a bitter fight over the legislation among republican leaders. Tomorrow and Wednesday have been set aside for consideration of the measure on the floor.

As completed by the committee after lengthy day and night sessions for several days, the bill embraces provisions of both the Capper and Lenroot-Anderson measure in proposing establishment of two new banking systems devoted exclusively to furnishing financial aid to farmers and livestock growers. Resources of the federal reserve system also are made available through the rediscount of farm paper having a maturity up to nine months. By another provision maximum loans by federal land banks would be increased from $10,000 to $25,000.

In following provisions of the Lenroot-Anderson bill the house measure would establish a government institution with 12 branches, known as "intermediate credit banks" to be a separate department of each of the 12 federal land banks and each to have a capital stock of $5,000,000. The other new system would be a privately owned one, as proposed in the Capper bill, consisting of agricultural credit corporations and rediscount corporations operating under the supervision of the federal farm loan board. Each system would be used to make loans up to nine months maturity on farm paper and the latter on livestock paper maturing in not more than three years.

LONE BANDIT ROBS TRAIN AT CHICAGO; DODGES OFFICERS

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Postal inspectors and railroad police today declared that last night's robbery of mail pouches on a Chicago train with through mail from San Francisco by a lone bandit was the third that took place on the same train within two months. The bandit escaped.

Both postal inspectors and railroad police scoffed at the theory that the robbery was an "inside job," declaring it their belief that the robber had boarded the train at some up-state point.

The bandit's sole haul was said to have been one registered package of unknown value, mailed in Chicago.

The robber was discovered by track walkers, making his way out of the New York Central yards with a small mail package under his arm. They gave chase, calling officers to their aid. The fugitive dodged about electrically charged third rails and finally eluded them.

The same train was looted of several registered mail packages a week ago, postal inspectors said.

MASS MEETING IS CALLED TO FIGHT CLARK'S REMOVAL

Opposition to the contemplated action of the school board, to supplant Lee Clark as city school superintendent developed Monday to the extent of caling a public mass meeting for Monday night at 7:30 at the Palace theater.

The school board will be asked to delay election of a superintendent until after the election of trustees in April. It became known Monday that the board intends to elect a superintendent at a meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Whether or not the board postpones action until after the trustee election, it became evident Monday that Lee Clark's record as superintendent here will be the issue in the election. The terms of two of those who are understood to favor electing a new man, W. M. Priddy and E. S. Goodner, expire this year; the terms of A. H. Carrigan and W. R. Ferguson also expire.

Since the publication in The Times last week of the situation in the board with reference to the superintendency, friends of Mr. Clark have been planning action in the matter. Sentiment in favor of his being retained crystalized Monday morning when a number of citizens were called by Claude Miller to a meeting in the office of C. H. Clark. A general committee consisting of G. C. Wood; Dr. R. L. Hargrave, P. A. Martin, Rev. N. F. Grafton, Dr. L. D. Parnell, Claude Miller and C. H. Clark was named, with authority to call the meeting if deemed expedient. This action was taken after the situation had been discussed at length and many expressions of loyalty to Mr. Clark had been voiced.

It was reported at this meeting that the four members of the board who are pretty definitely committed against re-electing Mr. Clark are contemplating the election of J. W. Cantwell, who is now superintendent of the state reform school for boys at Gatesville. Mr. Cantwell was superintendent of schools at Texarkana, Corsicana and Fort Worth, and president of the normal school at Stillwater, Oklahoma, prior to taking charge of the Gatesville institution. The report that he had been tentatively chosen to succeed Mr. Clark could not be confirmed Monday.

In addition to calling the mass meeting for Monday night, those at Monday morning's conference started circulation of petitions, reading as follows:

"Whereas, it is rumored that Supt. Lee Clark will not be an applicant for re-election for the position he now holds, and

"Whereas, we feel that the loss of Supt. Lee Clark at this time would be an irreparable loss to our magnificent and most excellent school system that he has built during his years of labor wih us,

"Therefore, we the undersigned patrons of the city schools and citizens of the city urge that our school board do all in its power to bring about his re-election for the ensuing term."

It was stated early Monday afternoon that more than 500 signatures to the petitions had been obtained in a few hours.

SMITH ON TRIAL IN ARDMORE CASE PASS NINE CASES

ARDMORE, OKLA., Feb. 26.—The trial of nine men charged with murder in connection with the slaying of Joe Carroll, alleged bootlegger, on the night of December 15, 1921, went over today when County Attorney John L. Hodge decided to call up first the case against Jeff Smith, an oil field worker of Healdton, who was granted a severance. Smith was tried about a month ago on the same charge, but the jury failed to reach a verdict.

County Attorney Hodge indicated the state's case against Smith is stronger than that against any other defendant and that a verdict on the charge against him will be sought before the other men are brought to trial.

After Judge W. F. Freeman had overruled a motion by Smith's counsel that the severance granted him before the first trial be waived and that he be tried with the other defendants, selection of a jury was commenced.

TRIAL OF NINE MEN IS SCHEDULED AT ARDMORE

ARDMORE, OKLA., Feb. 26.—Nine men will face District Judge W. F. Freeman here this morning, charged jointly with murder in connection with the killing of Joe Carroll of Wilson, Okla., December 15, 1921, by a masked band.

The trial is the second to result from the slaying of Carroll.

The men who will go to trial today are:

Dan Bilpath, contractor; Ray L. Beede, motor car dealer; C. G. Whitechurch, oil supply dealer; J. H. Pitts, motor car dealer; Tom Jailes, automobile supply man now living at Tulsa; Frank Cardwell, insurance agent; Dr. E. C. Harlow, optometrist; J. A. Gillam, stock man; W. L. T. Hilton, oil man.

J. B. Smith, who obtained a severance on the same charge, will be tried later, it was announced. Jeff Smith of Healdton, who also obtained a severance, was tried two weeks ago, the trial resulting in a hung jury. His defense was that the maskers had forced him to accompany them on their visit to Carroll's home. He was wounded when members of the family returned the fire of the raiders. Carroll was wounded when he appeared at the door of his home with a gun in hand. C. G. Sims, Ardmore police officer, and John Smith, brother of Jeff Smith, said to have been members of the band, were fatally wounded in the shooting.

FOUR OFFICIALS OF ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE TESTIFY

BEFORE GRAND JURY IN CONNECTION WITH ANDERSON CASE.

ROCKEFELLER DEFENDS ACTION OF ATTORNEY

Declares Public Have Right to Know How Money Contributed Is Used.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Acting District Attorney Pecora announced this morning that he would go before the grand jury this afternoon with a request that William H. Anderson, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of New York, be indicted on a charge of grand larceny.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—With four officials of the state Anti-Saloon League under subpoena, Acting District Attorney Pecora expected to present to a grand jury today evidence concerning the matter in which Superintendent William H. Anderson handled the organization's finances.

Yesterday Mr. Anderson, speaking in an Albany pulpit, declared he was the victim of "far reaching conspiracy" in which Tammany, wet republican machine politicians, and wet financial interests were involved.

His charges that the conspirators were using Raymond B. Fosdick, legal representative of the Rockefellers, as a "de facto stool pigeon, a wet-talking, personally hostile employe of John D. Rockefeller," to help their fight, brought an immediate response from John D. Rockefeller Jr.

Telephoning from Ormond Beach, Fla., Mr. Rockefeller authorized a statement which said:

"If Mr. Fosdick is guilty of participation in any wet conspiracy, I am guilty too, for he has represented me in this matter for two years and I have fully approved his every action, and he has had and still retains my fullest confidence. * * *

"Insofar as the gifts of my father and myself to the Anti-Saloon League are concerned, we have ourselves published them on several occasions. We feel that the source of all receipts of any organization such as the Anti-Saloon League should be made known; and also that a full public accounting should be made of the use of the money so contributed. An organization whose purpose is to influence public opinion can hardly afford to have financial secrets."

Mr. Pecora's inquiry specifically relates to $24,700 spent by the league for publicity and charges by G. B. Phillips, collector for the league, of "splitting of commissions."

PACKERS CHARGED WITH VIOLATIONS OF FEDERAL LAW

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Armour and Company and Morris and Company, Chicago packers, today were served by the secretary of agriculture with a complaint charging them with violation of the packers and stockyards act in connection with the tentative acquisition of the plans and business of Morris and Company by the Armour interests.

Secretary Wallace set April 2 for a hearing in Washington.

Armour and Company of Illinois, Armour and Company of Delaware, J. Ogden Armour and Morris and Company were named in the complaint.

The complaint stated that on December 30, J. Ogden Armour entered into a written contract with Morris and Company to acquire all of its assets. In so doing, it was charged, parties to the contract violated the packers and stockyards act.

Secretry Wallace claimed such acquisition would have the effect of restraining interstate commerce or of creating a monopoly in many sections of the United States in the purchase of livestock and in the shipment and sale of meat and other livestock products.

The complaint also charged that the contract would have the effect of manipulating or controlling prices.

F. Edson White, president of Armour and Company, in a statement today declared his company was willing to meet the issue involved speedily and without any fear of the result. He said the filing of the complaint did not come as a surprise.

SPLAWN OF TEXAS UNIVERSITY NABORS OF WINNSBORO NAMED BY GOVERNOR NEFF MONDAY

AUSTIN, Feb. 26.—Governor Neff today announced the appointment of W. M. W. Splawn, dean of the department of economics of the University of Texas, and W. A. Nabors, of Winnsboro, Texas, members of the state railroad commission succeeding Earle B. Doctor Splawn has been professor at the State University for four years, coming to Austin from Baylor College where he served as dean of economics department. He was educated at the following schools: Decatur College, Baylor University, University of Chicago and Yale University. Splawn made a special study of railroad problems at Chicago. RESOLUTION FOR COURT AFFILIATION FILED IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—A resolution to carry out the new administration proposal for American membership in the international court of justice, organized by the league of nations, was introduced in the senate today by Senator King, Democrat, Utah. There was no discussion and it went over indefinitely.

LITTLE TO INDICATE ATTITUDE OF SENATE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—More definite indication of the reaction of senate groups to the administration's sudden request for authority for this country's participation in the international court of justice, organized under the League of Nations, was looked for today on the eve of the foreign relations committee meeting to consider the matter. Meanwhile, indications increased that the senate probably will not be prepared even to initiate action on the proposal during the week remaining before adjournment and that it would go over until the December session.

While pending the committee meeting tomorrow, the "irreconcilable" and "reservationist" groups in the senate generally were withholding open expressions of judgment, already an attitude of suspicion and in some cases, hostility to the administration request was evident among the former faction.

It appeared to face as bitter opposition from that quarters as the League of Nations itself did. Indications of lukewarmness among administration leaders, largely belonging to the "reservationist" group in the league fight, also were seen in some quarters in their failure to come forward with immediate expressions of approval.

Among league proposents on the democratic side, however, there has been general endorsement of the aims sought in the administration program, particularly among the so-called "Wilson group." Even this endorsement, though, has been coupled with reservations as to details.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, acting Democratic leader, gave out a formal statement declaring that on preliminary study he had "a feeling of friendliness" for the administration plan, but adding that it indicated a "policy of timidity and half-heartedness" by the administration in its foreign policies.

Senator Robinson said it was unfortunate that the president had acted so late in the present session of congress. He also declared that the plan was a "repudiation of the policy of non-participation in European affairs."

Senator King incorporated in his resolution the reservations outlined in the letter of Secretary Hughes which accompanied the president's message Saturday submitting the proposal.

START SURVEY SOON FOR A GAS PIPE LINE FROM NOCONA FIELD

A pipe line to bring gas from the wells in Montague county, for local industrial use, is being considered by local and Montague county operators, and work will start shortly on a preliminary survey, it was learned Monday.

A number of good prospects have been completed in Montague county, more particularly in the vicinity of Nocona, and such a line would furnish a market for the gas, which at present is not being used except, to a small extent, for drilling fuel. C. E. Daniels, local oil operator, who has interests in Montague county, is among those active in the matter.

A meeting of the industrial committee of the Chamber of commerce promised the moral support of Nocona, and such a line would furnish that committee [illegible]

Permit Granted To Make Carbon Black In Stephens County

AUSTIN, Feb. 26.—The application of J. W. Harrell and others of Fidelity to manufacture carbon black from residue gas from natural gas wells in Stephens County was granted by the railroad commission today.

In connection with the carbon black application the commission issued a rule prohibiting the manufacture of carbon black so as to permit the commission to grant authority to manufacture carbon black in cases where gas is being wasted or from dead gas.

Chairman Hanger, in a statement on his order said the action does not affect the commission's rule restricting permits to manufacture carbon black from natural gas to one year except where it has been established that such gas would otherwise be wasted.

CONGRESS IN "HIGH" IN EFFORT TO PASS IMPORTANT BILLS

ONLY ONE WEEK REMAINS IN WHICH TO WIND UP WORK OF SESSION.

NUMBER OF MEASURES REMAIN ON CALENDAR

Senate Expected to Debate Suggestion U. S. Join International Court.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Congress went into high gear today to endeavor to clean up important legislation caught in the pre-adjournment jam on which efforts will be concentrated for the remaining week of the session.

While the senate, in the words of its supporters, is performing the final "obsequies" for the administration shipping bill to make way for other legislation, the house tackles first the deficiency appropriation bill. This measure and farm credits legislation to be considered in the house tomorrow are the two of major importance out of about 100 other bills and resolutions of which there is prospect of enactment.

The fate of many of these rests more in the house than in the senate, where the pre-adjournment jam appears not as bad this year as in the house.

The shipping bill, the defeat of which is conceded, coming up first on a pending motion to recommit is expected to survive that but is certain on the next move to be buried finally by displacement for the "filled milk" bill, or some other legislation. This will put in line for action also in the senate the "truth in fabric" bill, which raises the prospect of another filibustering movement there with threats of this seen also against several other measures in both houses.

The senate is expected to find time for some sharp debate on the administration's proposal for conditional American representation in the Hague international court of justice under the League of Nations, although no action is expected on it.

Efforts for enactment in the final week also are expected to be concentrated on the government employes' salary reclassification and the foreign service reorganization bills. Vigorous attempts to secure action in the house will be made in behalf of the Norris constitutional amendment, changing the date of the presidential inauguration and the convening of congress, and the Mississippi flood control bill.

CRITICIZES SCHEME OF CONSOLIDATING ROADS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—The general scheme of consolidating railroads now being tentatively advanced by the government was criticized today by C. M. Schumacher, president of the El Paso and Southwestern railroad, called today as the first witness before the Interstate Commerce Commission when hearings on the consolidation plan were resumed.

Any plan of combining major American railroads into 20 large systems, Mr. Schumacher asserted, would result in reduction of competition in transportation service, would lower initiative of railroad management and would reduce efficiency by lowering the effectiveness of management.

'Hungry Hearts' Splendid Human Interest Story

That "Hungry Hearts" carries one of the prettiest, as well as one of the most appealing human interest stories ever presented on the screen in this city, was demonstrated to members of the press and others at a private showing at the Strand Theater Sunday. The picture, after the order of "Humoresque," holds interest from the introduction of the humble home in Russia, through all the trying and sometimes amusing experiences of the immigrants to this country, until their final victory over adversity and their realization that "justice does prevail in America."

The outstanding characterization is that of Rosa Rosanova, as the Jewish mother, whose work is equally as good as was that of Vera Gordon in "Humoresque." Helen Ferguson, as the daughter, splendidly enacts the role of the immigrant girl who is ambitious to wear American clothes and learn American ways.

Bryant Washburn gives a good interpretation of the young lawyer and nephew of the grasping landlord. In fact tht entire cast is well balanced and the scenes are realistic, without effort at gorgeous display.

Montague Glass, creator of "Potash and Perlmutter," who put the finishing touches on the titles of "Hungry Hearts," wrote the following letter to the Goldwyn company immediately after he first saw the picture in review:

"'Hungry Hearts' is a picture which entirely disarms criticism. One might just as well try to criticize the technique of a mother nursing a child, or a bird singing, or any simple, natural, beautiful thing. It was not like seeing a moving picture to me. It was like eaves-dropping. I felt as though I had no business to be there, intruding myself upon the troubles of those kind-hearted, unfortunate Jehudins. I loved them all. I had sympathy for the hard-boiled landlord too. He sweated so profusely. As for Sopkin, the butcher—there are hundreds of him, only not quite so natural—on every block in the Eighth Assembly District.

"In short, 'Hungry Hearts' is far and away the most human moving picture I have ever seen. Gawd! How I like it! Can I say more than that?"

"Hungry Hearts" was adapted to the screen by Julien Josephson and directed by E. Mason Hopper. Miss Yezierska, the author, was constantly in personal touch with the production itself. The cast includes Bryant Washburn, Helen Ferguson, E. A. Warren, Rose Rosanova, George Siegmann, Otto Lederer, Millie Schottland, and Abe Budin. Hopper picked many of his players from everyday life, including Abe Budin, who plays the part of Sopkin, the butcher. He found Budin sweeping the sidewalk in front of his apartment house, and immediately engaged him.

"Hungry Hearts" is the attraction at the Strand for the first half of the week.

SAYS JONAH STORY DESIGNED TO SHOW GOD'S REVELATION

Dr N F Grafton's morning sermon at the First Presbyterian Church was taken from the third chapter of Jonah, the second verse "Arise, go into Nineveh, that great city, and preach unto all, the preaching that I bid thee"

The subject was 'A Battle of Wills" Dr. Grafton said

"The story of Jonah was a fruitless source of contention for many years. The fiercest battles have been waged in and out of the church on the socalled fish story or whale story of the Bible I have heard some very learned sermons on the question was it a whale or a fish and did it swallow Jonah and kind ed thoughts

"The underlying lesson in all of this contention over Jonah and the whale was lost The fact of whether it is a true story or an allegory makes not one bit of difference to the fundamental truth that God is seeking to teach in this story, and it seems to me we have lost a great deal by stopping to quibble over non-essentials, as we always do

"Why was the story of Jonah told at all? In answer to that question I wish to say that the story of Jonah is a step in progressive revelation. If you have read the Bible up to this time you will find that God had been leading men step by step in civilization advancement and knowledge of Jehovah and God has led man as man has been qualified and prepared to be led That is why we have a development in the Scriptures That is why the New Testament Scriptures are far above the Old Testament Scriptures in quality and in revelation

"The great truth of the book of Jonah is the truth of God's universal sway over man The Jews began, and steadfastly held to a very narrow conception of God They thought God or Jehovah was a God of Israel alone of one nation alone of one people alone God is now wanting them to know that he is not only the god of Abraham Isaac and Jacob but that he is the god of every man, of every nation, of every people, and that his sway is not confined to a limited territory and to a limited people, but that his sway is world wide and he is ready to reveal that great fact to the Jews through Jonah It was so hard for the Jews to get this larger truth that they never did and perhaps now have never gotten it In the New Testament it was hard for them to believe that the Messiahs would come to save the Jew and when Jesus Christ undertook to teach them the whosoever will plan of salvation to a lost world, they rejected it Such a character as Peter never quite got hold of this principle that God is seeking to teach the people in the days of Jonah.

"The story of Jonah was written to cure an error Jonah in his refusal to go to Nineveh did not do so through fear of danger or of hardship, but he feared his message would not be heard and would not be heeded He put patriotism above the Christ of God. His principle was like the man who said 'My country right or wrong' There is a patriotism that is narrow, that is nothing more than bigotry That was the patriotism of Jonah of the long ago

"He had several reasons for hating Nineveh. Ruled by a domineering king who swept the people like a whirlwind He killed the soldiers and placed their skulls where the Jews might see them, that they should pay tribute to him or meet the same disaster. This created bitter hatred in the heart of every Jew Now Jehovah is telling a man who is intensely patriotic, to go and preach to a city and he refused to do it because he feels that Jehovah will forget these people and he went west to Tarsus 40 miles inland from the Mediterranean Sea, for in Tarsus God was unknown

"There was no reminder to him of his duty. He could do as he pleased Many a man has wanted to do that same thing to go into some place where he may do his own sweet will and attend to his own mind That was the idea in the Prodigal Son when he asked his father to give him his living and he took his substance and went into a far country away from home and its influences, and this is the spirit of many men in the world today, trying to get away from God and away from right and obligation, but it cannot be done

"Jonah underestimated the purpose of God as does every man who will bid his will against the will of battle God is not limited in his ways God has other plans that can be carried through if man goes up against the plans of the eternal God When a man bids his will against the will of Jehovah there are but two recourses there are but two things left either to select another man to carry out the plan of God or to deal gently with that man until man's will comes to coalesce with the will of the Eternal God

"There is a will of God for your life and my life There is my will for my life and your will for your life Does your program coincide with the program of the Eternal God? Does the program of your life mean a selfish program? Does your program take into consideration the program of your fellowmen? Does the program of your life mean that you are ready and willing to carry out the plans of the Eternal God? God's way after all is the best way If your will has been rebellious against God's will and there have been collisions wreck injury and harm then it seems to me you need a new skipper on board a hand at the helm that will pull you safely through the troubled waters of life and make you a blessing to humanity rather than a harm to those with whom you come in contact.'

MANY ARRESTS IN RESIDENCE DISTRICT ON DRUNK CHARGES

Canned heat, jake and corn whiskey gave way Sunday night to Gordon gin, Deep Spring, Sunny Brook, Four Roses and other well known brands of liquid cheer that are now supposed to belong to the dim dead past From all appearances on the police blotter Monday morning, the private stock of folks who use the better brands was heavily drawn upon Sunday night Twenty charges of drunkenness decorated the docket in the municipal court the list included names of some well known citizens

The usual order of things was reversed, not one of the old Monday morning "regulars" imbibers of hair tonic, canned heat or other concoctions that are said to have the desired kick, appeared on a drunkenness charge In every case the defendants or their counsel testified that they were drunk on bonded liquor Another unusual feature was that the names of only two women were on the Monday morning docket, drunkenness charges appeared opposite their names in each case

Drunkenness charges Monday morning outnumbered similar charges of any previous docket for one day in several months. The majority of the arrests were made in the residential section of the city where parties were in progress.

Fines and forfeitures in each of the 20 cases amounted to $10 Returns on drunkenness charges in the city court Monday morning totaled $200

TWO TENTHS INCH RAIN FALLS HERE SUNDAY MORNING

The hazy, cloudy skies of Sunday issued a total of two-tenths of an inch of rain It was evident Monday morning that there was still more to come as the skies as far north as the railroad lines reached were overcast according to the reports of agents

A misting rain was falling over the entire district Monday and gave the appearance of a springtime fog

Agents south of Seymour on the Wichita Valley, however, report clear skies, bu tthe wind direction was north Later in the day the clouds spread over the skies south of this point

The temperature during the past 24 hours showed but little variation The highest point reached Sunday was 56 degrees and during the night receded but five points

The rain of Sunday morning was general from Fort Worth to Texline and from Abilene to Borgan At various points as much as a half inch of rain was reported

TRAVEL CLUB STUDIES AGE OF MATERIALISM

The Travel Club studied Dorothy Canfield's "Squirrel Cage" at their Friday meeting at Kemp Library, with the study guide, "False Ideals and their Danger."

Miss Blanche Potter discussed "The Reaction of the Whirl of Society and the Whirl of Business"; Mrs. W. W. Fraser discussed "Lydia's Degree of Responsibility for Her Environment," and Mrs. Stringer, "The Minotaur and Its Symbolic Meaning." There was a round table discussion of materialism, and the fact that it has permeated all conditions and classes of society, wielding a more potent influence during the present generation than at any time in the history of the modern era. The club discussed the lesson of the Squirrel Cage, which was, that "any individual who worships wishes a material ideal will bring ruin not only to himself, but to those about him."

The members present included, Mesdames Ola G. Hamlin, Grady England, Fred Elbert, G. L. Shapard, Guy Rogers, Leslie Humphrey, E. T. Duff, J. B. Hatchett, John Thomas, T. A. Hicks, John Kilgore, Ben G. O'Neal, W. W. Fraser, Leslie Stringer, and Miss Blanche Potter.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Werth and young son of Dallas are visiting Judge and Mrs. Orus O. Ross at their home, 2900 Tenth Street. Mrs. Werth is a sister of Mrs. Ross.

CAMPFIRE GIRLS PRESENT SPLENDID ENTERTAINERS AND CLEAR A NICE SUM

The local Campfire Girls added a feather to their headdress Saturday evening when they presented a first class musical organization to an appreciative audience, and added a neat sum to their funds for summer camp expenses.

The Southern Methodist University Choral Club gave a splendid two-hour program, the young women of the organization being assisted by members of the University Mandolin Club and several other musical artists at the Palace Theater. The entertainment was first-class in every respect, and the audience unusually responsive. The Campfire Girls are to be congratulated upon the first medium they chose to add to their summer camp fund.

The girls will net something between $60 and $75 toward the fund, after paying expenses, and consider that the venture was unusually successful.

Are Entertained Here

The S. M. U. delegation was met at the train at noon Saturday by the Campfire Girls and DeMolay boys, and escorted in a parade to the First M. E. Church for registration in the Campfire record. Miss Glenore Fisk of the University faculty, first guardian of the local campfire council, was with the organization as contralto soloist and was warmly welcomed by her many friends. After registration at the church the girls were driven to the various homes assigned, where they were guests at dinner. In the afternoon they were very delightfully entertained with a ride about the city and a tea at the home of Mrs. C. C. Randle at which Mrs. Randle and Miss Edna Kay were hostesses. Mrs. Randle's hospitality was tendered as a compliment from Lillian Randle, who attends S. M. U. and expected to be home to do the honors herself, but was detained in Dallas by illness. Miss Kay, who is also a S. M. U. student, came home Friday for the party and to visit Judge and Mrs. John Kay.

SAUL LEBENSON HOME FROM MARKETING TRIP, MAKES HEAVY PURCHASES

Saul Lebenson, of Saul's store, has returned from New York City where he spent more than a month in the eastern market.

Mr. Lebenson reports that he not only bought a heavy stock for the coming season but also bought a large amount of stock for next fall, particularly cotton goods. He stated that all indications are for a steadily rising market on cotton goods with no reduction unless there is a remarkably heavy cotton crop. In view of this tendency many buyers are now laying in their fall supply of such staples as outings, expecting thereby to be in a position to keep their prices down and save their customers any material advance in price.

According to Mr. Lebenson, silk weaves, canton crepes, crepe de chines, crepe knits and silk sport materials are going strong and he declared that he has a wonderful display along this line to offer the public this spring.

Mr. Lebenson says that although New York is a wonderful place to go, he appreciates Wichita Falls and Texas prosperity more than ever before. He reports that business conditions all over the country are splendid but that New York looks on Texas as the most prosperous section of the entire country.

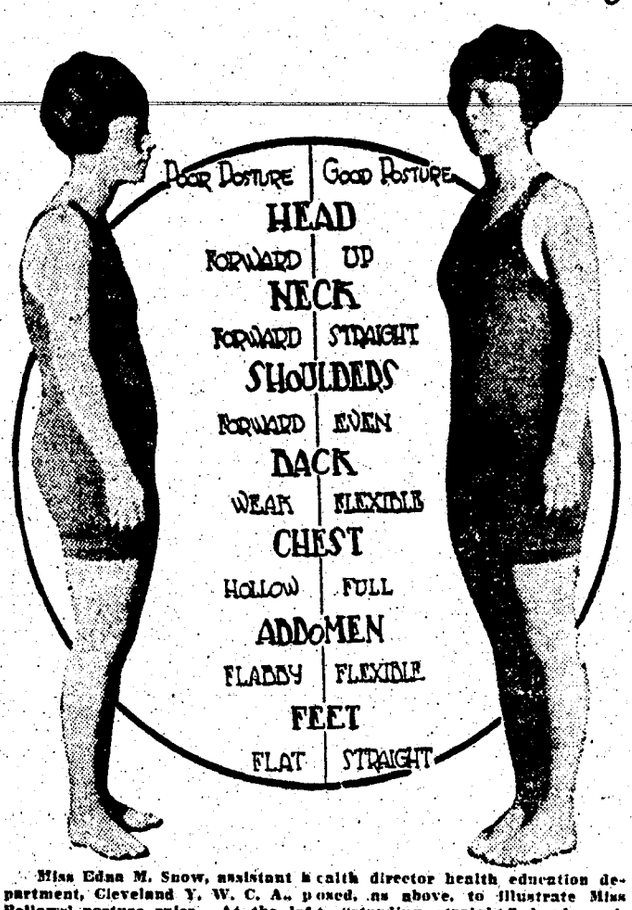
METHODIST CHURCH HAS NEW EPWORTH LEAGUE

An Epworth League, number two, was organized at the First M. E. church, south, Sunday evening when 34 charter members of high school age assembled. J. W. Thorne, president of the first league, organized the young people.

The officers elected were as follows: Will McClure, president; Miss Mary Tancard, secretary; Drummond Harris, treasurer; Miss Beulah Gardner, publicity agent; Misses Exia Darby, Thelma Cain, Marguerite Akin and Gerald Vincent, department superintendents.

Redheads, blue-winged teals, green-winged teals, Canada geese and different varieties of brant can fly from 68 to 98 miles an hour, but usually fly more slowly.

Stand Tall! Not Straight! For Health and Beauty



Miss Edna M. Snow, assistant health director health education department, Cleveland Y. W. C. A., posed, as above, to illustrate Miss Bellows' posture rules. At the left, "standing straight," head, neck and shoulders forward; chest, low and hollow; back, weak and round; abdominal muscles, loose and flabby; feet, toes out, flat. At the right, "standing tall," head up; neck, straight; shoulders, held in line with the body; chest, broad, deep and full; back muscles and abdomen, strong and flexible; feet, straight, arches up, toes down.

By NEA Service.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 24.—"Stand 'all! Not straight!"

That's the advice given to women who would be healthy by Miss Jane Bellows, health education secretary of the Y. W. C. A. national board.

"Your health depends on how you stand," she continues. "Poor health necessarily follows poor posture.

"Also, of course, good health depends on good habits—eating, sleeping, working, playing—also mental as well as physical habits.

"What's the difference between standing 'straight' and standing 'tall'?

"Just this—

"In standing tall there's an effort to push upward, from the feet, and at the knees, abdomen and neck.—

"It's an easy, natural position, in which the muscles are relaxed and in which a person doesn't tire.

"Standing straight, on the contrary, pinches the nerves of the back. It's unnatural and tiring."

ANNUAL TELEPHONE CALLS AVERAGE 176 TO PERSON

CHICAGO, Feb. 26—If every man, woman and child in the United States did his share of talking over the telephone last year, each would be entitled to 176 completed calls, according to figures compiled by the Illinois committee on public utility information.

The committee reports twenty billion telephone conversations in 1922 over the 134,300,000 telephones then in use. To handle the business 305,000 persons were employed by the 53,100 telephone companies, and, the committee impressively adds, the 29,701,000 miles of wire used would encircle the globe 1,183 times at the equator. In other words there is enough of the wire to run 62 double wire telephone circuits from the earth to the moon, at its mean distance from the earth, and still have 90,000 miles or so left over for other purposes.

Since Dr. Alexander Graham Bell invented the telephone in 1876 the industry has grown with such amazing speed that the United States with only a sixteenth of the world's population, now possesses two-thirds of all the telephones in use.

The 15,000,000 telephone poles in use says the statistician would build a railroad trestle 30 feet high from Chicago to Buenos Aires, while the additions and replacements each year carry a telephone line two-thirds the way around the earth.

In 1900, he reports, there was one telephone for every 90 persons; in 1905 one for each 34; in 1910 one to each 16; in 1915 one to each 11, and in 1921 one to each eight.

Next to Americans the people of Denmark are the most telephonically talkative on earth. In 1920, when Americans averaged 160 conversations per annum for each man, woman and child, the Danes were second with 118. Norway and Sweden were third and fourth, both averaging above 100 conversations per inhabitant. The best the Germans, in fifth place could do, was 52. The Netherlands and Australia were between 40 and 50. Switzerland averaged 30; Great Britain 20, France 12, Belgium 10 and Italy eight. The investment in telephone properties in the United States totals $1,750,000,000.

Comedian Pays High Tribute to Rheba Crawford

NEW YORK, Feb. 25.—Rheba Crawford, former Salvation Army captain, who recently resigned from the army after her arrest in Times Square for conducting a religious meeting that obstructed traffic, intends to organize a band of young people to accompany her in her proposed evangelical tour of the country.

More than a thousand friends and admirers gave her a farewell party last night in a theater.

Will Rogers, the comedian, who introduced Miss Crawford, said she was the only person in New York he could introduce without to his friends without an apology. He said he knew of bootleggers who, after hearing her speak at open air meetings, had cut their prices $5 a case.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

MR. PEG-LEG

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

"Which one of my legs is peg?"

"Hello!" said Nick. "Who are you?"

"Can't you see?" asked a strange person thumping toward them on a peg-leg.

"Are you Peg-Leg?" asked Nancy.

"Certainly!" said the new person. "Aren't you smart!"

"Why?" asked Nick.

"Just because. Besides I heard you say you were going to put Jack Straw out."

"Well, we are," answered Nick. "That's what we came to Mix-Up Land for. Jack Straw put King Even-Steven out and we are going to put him out."

"How?"

"We don't know yet," it was Nancy's turn to say, "but we're going to do it."

"How?" asked Peg-Leg again.

"Well, if you must know," said Nancy, "we've got magic shoes. We have passed the fiery mountain all right, so I guess we can cross that river there! It isn't so very wide anyway, and Jack Straw's house is just beside it."

"Humph!" exclaimed Peg-Leg. "What's in your basket?"

"Eggs. They're magical eggs that the Cut-Out Woman gave us."

"That's nothing! I'm smarter than any old Cut-Out Woman," said Peg-Leg. "Now watch what happens. Which one of my legs is peg?"

Peg-Leg put both hands behind him and then he asked, "Now which?"

"Right!" said Nancy.

"Oh, oh, that's queer! What kind of magic do you use?" cried Nancy.

"Won't tell," said Peg-Leg, wagging his head. "Only you wont get across that river to Jack Straw's house, eggs or no eggs, shoes or no shoes."

"What's that got to do with peg legs changing around?" asked Nick.

"I'll tell you what," said Peg-Leg boastfully. "Because I'm not Peg-Leg at all, but Jack Straw himself and I've still got my magic ring on my left thumb. If I turn it around I can do anything I wish to you. So look out."

Two Styles at your store now

Quick Quaker Oats

Cook in 3 to 5 minutes

There are now two styles of Quaker Oats, the Quick and the regular.

Quick Quaker, perfected by our experts, is the quickest cooking oats in the world. It cooks to perfection in 3 to 5 minutes.

All Quaker Oats have that exquisite flavor which has won the world. All are flaked from queen grains only—just the rich, plump, flavory oats.

But in Quick Quaker the oats are cut before flaking. They are rolled very thin and are partly cooked. So the flakes are smaller and thinner—that is all. And the small thin flakes cook quickly.

Your grocer has both styles. If you want oats almost ready, ask for Quick Quaker. Look for "Quick" on the label.

WILL STAY NEUTRAL DURING FIGHT OVER COLLEGE LOCATION

C. OF C. DIRECTORS VOTE NOT TO TAKE SIDES IN CONTEST.

NEARBY TOWNS WILL WORK FOR INSTITUTION

This City Not to Show Preference, But Individuals Plan to Give Help.

Wichita Falls will be neutral in the contest for location of the Texas Technological College, it was decided Monday morning at a meeting of the directors of the chamber of commerce.

Several neighboring towns will be in the contest, and individual members of the board expressed strong preferences for one or another of them, but decided that the organization would not side with any community.

A telegram of congratulation will be sent to the Sweetwater celebration meeting Friday, by the chamber of commerce.

The directors made plans for entertaining the cotton mill officials who will be here Saturday, and steps will be taken for showing them this city's advantages. Some of the directors feel that with the prospect for successful cultivation of long staple cotton, under irrigation, Wichita Falls can offer something that but few Texas communities can offer.

DALLAS MAN HEARD AT THREE MEETINGS IN THIS CITY SUNDAY

DeWitt McMurray, Dallas newspaperman, delivered three addresses in Wichita Falls Sunday, speaking at the M. E. Church, South, in the morning, at a meeting at the First Baptist Church in the afternoon and at the First Presbyterian Church Sunday night.

Mr. McMurray, whose religious writings have appeared in print for a number of years, only quite recently "found himself" in a spiritual way, according to his remarks Sunday, and his description of his own religious experiences formed interesting portions of his talks. Making no pretense of any knowledge of theology, Mr. McMurray preaches a simple gospel of salvation in an emphatic, eloquent way.

He was heard by a large crowd, mostly members of Masonic orders, at the First Baptist Church Sunday afternoon, when he spoke on "Soldiers of the Cross."

Mr. McMurray is editor of the Dallas Semi-Weekly Farm News, a member of the Dallas school board, a member of the advisory council of Dallas Boy Scouts, a contributor to the Texas Baptist Standard, and an active worker in Masonic ranks.

WHEELS OF JUSTICE DON'T TURN SLOWLY IN CASE OF NEGRO

An exception to the generally accepted truth that the wheels of justice grind slowly was taken Monday morning in the 30th district court in the case of Frank Burkhead, a negro youth.

On a plea of guilty to a charge of assault with intent to rob, the negro was found guilty of the charge by a jury and his punishment fixed at two years' confinement in the state penitentiary.

On February 14, J. W. Bell, negro proprietor of a grocery store in the district beyond the tracks, was accosted by a negro at 7:30 o'clock at night. Before morning the city police department had placed Burkhead under arrest.

On February 15 he made a confession to the county attorney. The grand jury returned a bill of indictment on February 21, and on February 26 he was tried and convicted and immediately received sentence. He begins serving his time of this date.

NEA Service Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—"Doc" Sugden's back in civilization. He has brought with him, after 25 years, the real story of "The Shooting of Dan McGrew."

Sugden, physician and explorer, was among those who "ducked their heads when the lights went out and two guns blazed in the dark" in the Alaskan saloon where the murder occurred, that Robert W. Service has immortalized in his poem. It was Sugden, who a few years later, told the story in Service's presence which inspired the poem.

"Dan McGrew's real name was 'Wyoming Bill' and he wasn't a westerner, at all, but came of a refined family in Boston," says Sugden. "He was brought up to be a social light—and he couldn't be anything else.

"He fell madly in love with a married woman in Boston named Lou. They ran away, west. The husband, a musical genius, followed.

"Forced to support himself and his love, Bill turned to the only thing he knew—cards. Soon he became a common gambler. Lou stood by him.

Became Hardened

"It was hard on her—poor woman. Reared carefully by New England parents, she wasn't fitted for the rough life in Wyoming where they had buried themselves in an effort to escape detection. But she became hardened.

"Bill gained the reputation of being a bad man. Lou was known as his woman.

"They soon moved north.

"It was the beginning of the Klondike rush. Money changed hands easily. They settled in Juneau and Bill ran a gambling table in one of the barrooms there.

"It wasn't in the Malamute saloon, that the shooting took place, but in a place called 'Nuggets.'

"Bill was playing solo at his table. Lou was standing by him, luring the suckers on. I was sitting in a chair in the far corner of the room.

"Suddenly the door swung open and in came a stranger with a face most hair and a dreary stare of a dog whose day is gone.

"He ordered drinks for the house, taking dripped absinthe for himself. It was a bad sign.

"After drinking slowly, he spied the piano and went over. The 'Ragtime Kid' was taking a drink at the bar. But he almost dropped it when he heard the stranger's playing.

"It went through all of us like an electric current. How that man could play! First it was an aria from the opera 'Samson and Delilah.' Then it was the 'Maiden's Prayer.'

"Finally a crash of chords that made us all jump. Then he rose and faced us, as Service writes:

"'Boys,' says he, 'you don't know me, and none of you care a damn;
"'But I want to state, and my words are straight, and I'll bet my poke they're true,
"'That one of you is a hound of hell.....and that one is Dan McGrew'.

"Bill, who hadn't looked up from his game, wheeled around. Out went the lights. Then came two pistol cracks — and a woman's scream.

"Then a woman's sobbing. The barkeep turned on the lights again.

Both Shot Dead

"There on the floor lay Bill, shot through the heart, and the stranger hit square between the eyes. Kneeling at the stranger's side was Lou—kissing him.

"He was her husband.

"After that Lou went down to Dawson and married a prosperous miner. She lived happily, I know. I was her physician. But only a few years ago her end came, as it had begun—tragically.

"A river steamer she was on was wrecked and everybody lost.

"Her family still lives in Boston. But they don't know that their daughter was the Lou of Service's poem."

Dr. Sugden is 62 and has been on the go all his life. He has sailed the seven seas, lived in the interior of Alaska for 17 years, worked with the Canadian Mounted Police, fought with the Chinese army against the Japanese, was surgeon of the Port of Shanghai, led an expedition into Swaziland, and explored in Brazil.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

For a thousand years in thy sight are but as yesterday when it is past, and as a watch in the night.—Ps. 90:4.

This narrow isthmus 'twixt two boundless seas.—Moore.

THE USE OF NATURAL GAS FOR MAKING CARBON BLACK.

A bill to permit the manufacture of carbon black, which is another name for the old lamp black, is now before the legislature.

Carbon black is made by allowing flame from the imperfect combustion of natural gas to strike against a sheet of metal. As the carbon is deposited on the surface of the metal it is removed by a scraper which deposits it in a receptacle. Carbon black is an essential in the making of printing inks and in other inks, paints and some other things.

A number of states do not permit its manufacture as large quantities of natural gas are required to make it. The bill now before the legislature is being opposed by natural gas companies and by a number of the municipalities and other interests served by these companies Natural gas performs its greatest service when put to domestic use, and where it can be profitably employed for such use it ought not to be diverted to other uses. Natural gas is a stored deposit and when the deposit is used up there is no new supply. It would be folly therefore to permit the unrestricted use of natural gas for carbon black There are, however, deposits of natural gas in such isolated sections that it cannot be brought to domestic users. Such gas might well be used for the manufacture of such a useful commodity as carbon black In a number of oil fields gas is a by product which too often goes to waste, not being produced in such quantity that it can be profitably collected for domestic use If this gas can be used for the making of carbon black it would be that much saved. In some fields natural gas is also used for the production of gasoline Much of the carbon and hydrogen in the gas are not used and in many instances go to waste. If a way could be found to use this gas for carbon black it ought to be put into operation In some fields there is also gas of such low heat value that it cannot be profitably employed for domestic use If this gas will make carbon black profitably, it ought to be so used

The legislature ought to throw safeguards around the use of natural gas for other purposes than domestic use but it ought not to prevent its use for the manufacture of carbon black altogether.

A GOVERNOR WHO IS ACCEPTING HIS RESPONSIBILITIES.

Gifford Pinchot, the new governor of Pennsylvania, is making a good start. He conceives it to be the duty of a governor to exert his utmost for an economical and business like administration and for the full enforcement of the laws. He is stirring up some dry bones in the Keystone state. So far he has accepted all the responsibilities of his office and hasn't attempted to pass the buck to anybody.

Not for the purpose of being sensational, but because the prohibition laws have been flagrantly violated in Pennsylvania and because they ought to be enforced like other laws, Governor Pinchot has set his hand to the task

'I propose," he said in a message to the Pennsylvania legislature, "to work not only with all my power for the abolition of the saloon, but also to make sure that the government of the state takes its full and effective part in such an effort

"Pennsylvania must either control the criminals who are openly breaking the law, or be controlled by them With all good citizens I believe that this commonwealth is greater and more powerful than any band of lawbreakers whatsoever, and I intend to act on that belief.

"The administration will be dry. The executive mansion will be dry, and the personal practice of the governor and his family will continue to be dry, in conformity to the spirit and letter of the eighteenth amendment.

"The law is the law. It is the foundation of order, safety and prosperity of the commonwealth itself Every state official takes oath, and is in honor bound to obey it

"I shall expect and demand from every public servant appointed by me, or subject to removal by me, from the highest to the lowest, entire and ungrudging obedience to the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead law. They are part of the law of the land"

That is straight, sensible talk And the best part about it is that it isn't just talk Governor Pinchot has already shown himself in many ways to be a man of determination and action Success to his administration.

POISONS.

Detective Story magazine in a recent issue carried an article by D. E Wheeler about the widespread use of poisons by French criminals 250 years ago.

The arch demon of these poisoners was Madame de Brinvilliers. The article tells how, posing as an administering angel, she experimented upon the poor patients in Hotel Dieu, the city hospital of Paris. She fed, to the sick, poisoned food and wine, and studied their death agonies until she found the best poisons to use on her friends, brothers and rich relatives whose money she coveted.

Says the article: "So universal was the fear of being poisoned in France during the reign of the glorious Louis XIV, that it was customary for ladies and gentlemen of high degree to carry about with them an antidote for emergencies An antidote in great favor was called Theraic. It was compounded of about 50 different drugs. Many men of rank and wealth took their Theriac in the morning as regularly as they had breakfast."

An able writer of that period, Madame de Sevigne, recorded this story about Madame de Brinvilliers and her lover, Sainte-Croix.

"Madame de Brinvilliers wanted to marry Sainte-Croix With that intention she often gave her husband poison Sainte-Croix, not desiring so wicked a woman for his wife, gave antidotes to the poor husband, with the result that—shuttle-cocked about in this manner five or six times, now poisoned, now unpoisoned—he still remained alive"

This wicked woman finally was arrested, her guilt proved, and beheaded in public after long torture in which she refused to betray her accomplices, who not only poisoned on their own account but also conducted a big traffic selling deadly drugs to thousands who wanted to get rid of enemies or rich relatives.

Very little was known about poisons 250 years ago, excepting a few of the simpler drugs. Criminals in their laboratories discovered much of what is known today about poisons. And doctors, forced to find antidotes, uncovered chemical truths that are of much value today

For instance, our national government announces that in a recent campaign in Arizona, it poisoned and killed five million prairie dogs. "The increased forage now possible will support at least 50,000 sheep (instead of five million prairie dogs), and farmers are now growing alfalfa and grain on ground which formerly was so heavily infested with prairie dogs that it was impossible to raise anything."

Wicked Madame de Brinvilliers, and others like her, contributed to the knowledge that made possible such uses of poison as getting rid of the prairie dogs Time eventually guides all evil into righteous paths.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BE HAPPY.

After Walt Whitman's death, there was found among his papers an undated scrap with these words in his own handwriting: "A Poem—Theme. Be Happy. Going forth, seeing all the beautiful perfect things"

I can see in my imagination that quaint figure, with its whimsical smile, journeying from Brooklyn, New York, to Central Park—now walking, now riding, now engaged in talking with some policeman or some wayfarer.

I see him at another time sitting on a ferry boat talking with some chance acquaintance and learning always something new, something beautiful from some seemingly unlovely life.

For no matter where Walt Whitman went, he sought to draw out something that he might later shape up and present to the world. And so his theme of life was to go forth—to be happy and to make others happy—to see "all the beautiful perfect things"

In his famous work "Leaves of Grass" appears this sentence "In me the caresser of life wherever moving"

It sounds very trite and pollyannish to say: "Be Happy'" And yet that is exactly what we must say to ourselves and impress upon our own minds as a positive command if we would disarm half our foes in advance.

I passed a person on the street today whose face depressed me for a moment because of its cold, unhappy cast One does not have to have a smile on his face all the time in order to be happy Happiness is most of the time a very serious affair.

But the person who is happy lends a look to the outer world that is unmistakable.

Be happy!

Why not?

JUST FOLKS —By— Edgar A. Guest

BRAVE.

The other night, 'bout two o'clock or maybe it was three,
An elephant with shining tusks came chasing after me
His trunk was wavin' in the air an' spoutin' jets of steam
An' he was out to eat me up, but still I didn't scream
Or let him see that I was scared—a better thought I had,
I just escaped from where I was, and crawled in bed with Dad.

One time there was a giant who was horrible to see,
He had three heads and twenty arms, an' he come after me,
And red hot fire came from his mouths and every hand was red
And he declared he'd grind my bones and make them into bread.
But I was just too smart for him, I fooled him mighty bad—
Before his hands could collar me I crawled in bed with Dad.

I ain't scared of nothing that comes pesterin' me at night.
Once I was chased by forty ghosts all shimmery an' white
An' I just raced 'em round the room an' let 'em think maybe
I'd have to stop an' rest awhile, when they could capture me.
Then when they leapt onto my bed, oh gee' but they were mad
To find that I had slipped away an' crawled in bed with Dad.

No giants ghosts or elephants have dared to come in there,
Coz if they did he'd beat 'em up and chase 'em to their lair.
They just hang round the children's rooms an' snap an' snarl an' bite
An' laugh if they can make 'em yell for help with all their might.
But I don't ever yell out loud I'm not that sort of lad
I slip from out the covers and I crawl in bed with Dad

If a moving cog wheel is revolving about a stationary wheel of the same size the moving wheel will make two complete turns in completing its circuit This can be proven by experimenting with two pennies.

PROSPECTS

People will face trouble only up to a certain point, then move away to seek relief That's what brought America its first colonists And it's the escape that will be sought by overburdened Europeans as soon as they fully realize that it will take generations to unscramble the eggs over there

We could have the pick of the emigrants, if we wanted them The outlook is most of them will settle in Brazil, Australia western Canada and parts of Africa Big wars always start gigantic racial movements, shiftings of population One of them impends now

EXTREMES

It thrills us Americans to know that Uncle Sam carries letters in airplanes over the transcontinental route at a speed of 100 miles an hour

But let's not forget the other extreme—the one-mile-an-hour dog team carrying mail through the mountain passes of Alaska.

Always we seem to need both extremes And the wheel that turns slowly is as important, to the whole works, as the wheel that turns fast Applying it humanly, plodders are as necessary as the speed artists.

A famous firm of Sheffield cutlery manufacturers has produced a perfect pair of scissors so small that they are easily contained in an ordinary thimble.

A hailstone weighing five pounds four ounces is reported as having fallen in the Schwebo district, Burma

YOU AND I

By ALBERT APPLE

FLYING

Sadi Lecointe, French aviator, breaks the world's speed record. He flies 235 miles an hour. That is almost four miles a minute. Within our generation fliers probably will make 1,000 miles an hour. Or more

Turning to more practical things, Uncle Sam's air mail now covers a route of 2 680 miles. The round trip is made daily except Sundays and holidays.

The airplane is being developed faster than any invention in history How long until it will be safer to fly than drive a car? Ten years may be a conservative guess.

COTTON

Prosperity note for southern states The government estimates that the stocks of American cotton next Aug 1 will total only 2,775 000 bales, compared with 9,351,000 bales on the corresponding date in 1921

World consumption of cotton in the season that ends July 31 will exceed production by 3,000,000 bales

This means more money for the cotton industry, if the law of supply and demand hasn't been repealed by our unbalanced system of economics Is it more profitable to sell one bale of cotton at 30 cents a pound, say, than two bales at 20 cent a pound"

LURE

A gold nugget worth $22 50 is found by a housewife at Invermere, British Columbia, while dressing a goose for the oven This starts a gold rush on Brady Creek, where the goose was raised.

Gold is to humans what the magnetic pole is to the compass And yet its value is chiefly in public imagination and confidence. Oh, well, most of us live in a semi-hypnotic trance.

BILLIONS

Stocks and bonds listed on the New York Stock Exchange, not counting liberty bonds have a combined par value of nearly 36 billion dollars, not including 96 million shares of no par value

It is a pretty big pot for the gamblers

Including liberty bonds, the listings on the New York exxchange cover a fifth of our national wealth What happens to the fifth plays havoc to the other four-fifths.

TRUCKS

Plenty of coal waiting at the mines, but the railroads cannot haul it, on account of car shortage With railroads having more freight than they can handle promptly, we realize the immense value of auto trucks

Over a million motor trucks are in service in America hauling 1430 million tons of freight a year. The trucks will never endanger the railroads Both are needed Within 20 years we'll also have to have flying freight trains.

STAGE COACHES

In the days when mail was handled by stage coaches instead of fast trains and airplanes, to took 14 days to send a letter from New York to Chicago We get this from R McP. Cabeen, stamp expert

And the people of those times thought 14 days a very fast trip.

It makes us wonder if our mail planes will seem similarly slow to our descendants of the year 2000 The program for the future calls for faster and faster speed

Shall win all nations unto thee,
And through the truth that comes from God,
Mankind shall then indeed be free.

Sir Norman Greyes' Side

I resigned my position at Scotland Yard for two reasons First as a protest against an act of gross injustice which, although it did not affect me personally, was still bitterly resented by the majority of my fellow workers, and secondly because, through the unexpected death of a distant relative, I succeeded to a baronetcy and a sufficient income

I spent the best part of three years in travel, nearly half of which time I was in the United States On my return to London I found myself much against my will, hankering after my old profession It was very clear to me that my old department had lost the mastery it had once had over the criminal world The problems of several cold-blooded murders and various large and daring robberies remained entirely unsolved. In the intervals of my country life I began to study these from an outsider's point of view, chiefly from the columns of the newspapers, but also to some extent from hints and information supplied to me by my friend Inspector Rimmington who had been one of my colleagues in the old days and now held the post which I had vacated Gradually I came to a certain conclusion, a conclusion which I kept largely to myself because I felt sure that no one at the Yard was likely to agree with me. I decided that the majority of these undetected crimes were due to one person, or rather to one gang of criminals presided over by one dominant leader. Purely from the developed instinct by my long years of service in the police department, I set myself the task of hunting down this super-criminal

There were three crimes which I became convinced had been committed by the same hand The first was the great robbery of jewels from Messrs Henson & Watts' establishment in Regent street and the murder of the watchman who was shot dead at his post No trace of even a single article of this jewelry had ever been discovered The second crime was the robbery of a number of bonds from a messenger in a railway carriage on the London, Chatham and Dover line The messenger was also shot but recovered after six months' nursing, although he could never give any coherent account of what had happened to him The bonds were disposed of in South America The third was the robbery from Lord Wenderley's house in Park Lane.

There were other crimes which I thought might be connected with these, but these three, for various reasons, became linked together in my mind as the outcome of one man's planning I set myself the task of discovering this one man and the day came at last when I really believed that I was in a position to lay my hand upon him There is no necessity to detail the evidence which pointed to this man It is enough to say that after watching him for three weeks I became convinced that a man of the name of Thomas Pugsley carrying on business in Bermondsey as a leather broker and living apparently the most respectable of lives at Brixton was in some measure connected with these crimes

I discovered that Pugsley's leather-agency business was prosecuted without energy or attention that his frequent absences from London were not in neighborhoods where his wares could be pushed and that he was often away for a month at a time with his whereabouts unknown even to his landlady The latter was a highly respectable woman at whose house he had lived for the last two years and who I honestly believe, was ignorant of her lodger's antecedents habits and business By taking rooms in the neighborhood I easily discovered all that she knew and one or two circumstances which lent color to my suspicion I placed these before Rimmington and it was decided to make an arrest

He was dead but still warm, and by an extraordinary chance I at once recognized him. He was one of the two plain-clothes men I had seen that morning.

A more clumsy piece of business than this intended arrest was never planned or carried into effect The inspector placed in charge of the affair by Rimmington and his two subordinates arrived at Brixton an hour later than the time fixed upon accosted Pugsley in the street, and were very soon made aware of the class of person with whom they had to deal Before the inspector could get out half a dozen words he was lying on the pavement with a bullet through his shoulder His companions dragged him to the pavement and set him up against the railings Then they turned to look for Pugsley There was not a trace of him to be discovered anywhere

The amazing skill and cunning of the man was amply demonstrated on that morning By some extraordinary means he seemed to disappear from the face of the earth.

The morning which witnessed, however the shooting of the inspector and the remarkable disappearance of the man in whom I was so deeply interested was memorable so far as I was concerned for another noteworthy incident Absolutely disgusted with the result of my six months' labors I determined to wipe the whole thing from my memory, and traveled down to Woking with the intention of playing a round of golf I was introduced by the secretary to a resident of the place whose name was James Stanfield, and we had a round which ranks amongst the best I ever played in my life.

Stanfield was a silent but by no means a gloomy person He appeared to be about forty years of age and an absolute golf maniac. He played every shot with the most ridiculous care, but I must confess with also the most wonderful precision. His drives were never long but they were long enough for him to escape trouble, and in the approximate eighty shots which he took to complete the course, I cannot remember one that was in any way fluffed or foozled He beat me at the seventeenth hole, and it was while we stood together upon the eighteenth tee that the incident happened which was to bring still more excitement into the day

On our right was a small planting of shrubs through which wound the path which my partner pointed out to me as leading to his house Our attention was attracted by the continued barking of a small dog which had wandered from the adjacent footpath I had the curiosity to walk a step or two into the shrubbery to see what was the trouble My companion however who was a little on my left, was the first to discover the cause of the dog's excitement At a little cry from him I hurried to his side Stretched upon his back, with extended arms and a small blue hole in his forehead, we found the body of a man He was dead but still warm, and by an extraordinary chance I at once recognized him He was one of the two plain-clothes policemen whom I had seen in Woolley Road that morning foiled in his attempt to arrest the man who had been waiting under the name of Thomas Pugsley

Janet Soale' Explanati

Just before midday on Tuesday, the third of November, my master made one of his unexpected disappearances I was not surprised the night before, I had dreamed of him and it seemed to me impossible that with my passionate prayers going on day by day, he should stay away no longer When I first saw him turn at the gate, I was filled with excitement If he could have seen me that moment, he would have known and understood everything By the time he had reached the front door, however, and I let him in, I had regained my self control I must have seemed to him just the ordinary well-mannered, well-conducted parlormaid

He changed his clothes and went off presently for his round of golf When I went to his room to brush and press the clothes which he had taken off I found, however, that he had placed them in a drawer and apparently locked it The discovery, coming on top of many others, gave me food for thought I resolved to watch the next morning's newspapers. It was becoming more and more clear to me that there was something in my master's manner of life which he was anxious to conceal from the world. I was the more convinced of this when I saw that in the top drawer, which he had opened to take out a tie he had concealed a small revolver loaded in all six chambers

ENGRAVING BUREAU CONTROVERSY STILL A VERY LIVE ISSUE

CONTINUES TO PLAGUE ADMINISTRATION LEADERS AT CAPITAL.

MAY BE INJECTED INTO NEXT NATIONAL CONTEST

Democrats Do Not Intend That Public Shall Forget the Matter.

WASHINGTON, D C, Feb. 26—Like Banquo's ghost the wholesale discharge of men and women, civil service employes in the bureau of engraving, made nearly a year ago under an executive order, will not down. It has risen half a dozen times since then to plague the administration and while President Harding insists that it is a closed incident the Democrats in the senate do not intend to let it go at that.

Arguing on the theory that nothing is ever really settled until it is settled right these senators led by Caraway of Arkansas and McKellar of Tennessee intend to do their best to keep it before the country and if what they term 'justice' is not done these 28 men and women it is their purpose to make the bureau of engraving incident an issue in the next presidential campaign The Democrats contend this constitutes an assault on the principle of civil service with the Republicans cannot defend and that the recent admission from the white house that charges warranting an investigation of those men and women make President Harding's position all the more untenable

Situation Not Understood

Although the discharge of James I, Wilmeth director of the bureau and 27 other bureau chiefs on March 31, last, created something of a stir and since, from time to time, has bobbed up in news dispatches it is doubtful if the country at large has a very clear understanding of just what it is all about The men and women themselves, however have a very keen appreciation of just what happened since with the exception of a few who were restored to their positions they all have been more or less under suspicion and without employment

The first intimation Washington had of any trouble at the bureau of engraving came on the last day of last March when it was announced that Director Wilmeth and the 27 other employes had been summarily removed and that Louis D Hill had been appointed director with power to reorganize this bureau No reasons were assigned for the action but there were rumors a-plenty and these made unpleasant reading for the friends of Wilmeth and the others Wilmeth, by the way had entered the bureau as a young man and during the 30 years of service had worked his way to the top Others among those discharged had been there almost as long

Mystery Deepens

The mystery deepened when Secretary Mellon who as head of the treasury has jurisdiction over the bureau of engraving, denied that he had been advised before the order was issued and that recent investigations not only failed to reveal any shortages but had complimented some of the very men discharged The only thing charitable from the white house was that the bureau was being subjected to a most searching investigation and that there would be no statement forthcoming until this had been concluded

Meanwhile the men and women affected were protesting their innocence They were without their jobs and even without civil service status which was taken from them when summarily removed from an executive order Some found employment elsewhere one or two died and others merely waited Finally the treasury department gave out a statement that an investigation had disclosed one government bond had been duplicated 400 times but at the same time it was admitted this was due to a defect in the numbering machine that the duplicated bonds had not gone out and that the government had lost nothing

Renew Their Attacks

The Democratic senators renewed their assaults on President Harding declaring his action arbitrary and unlawful insisting that the civil service status of these discharged employes should be restored to them or that they be given a formal hearing upon regular preferred charges as provided under civil service regulations They declared were insistently asserted be can if not restored to the civil service rolls within a year after discharge the men and women would lose their rights altogether

Finally the announcement was made from the white house that the investigation of the bureau of engraving having failed to reveal any charges against the status of the employes would be restored but that no statement would be given back their old positions that this was not feasible and that the best they could get would be some other civil service position to which they might be eligible and in which a vacancy existed With this announcement so far as President Harding was concerned this was a closed incident

As was stated however the Democratic senators are not content since that announcement Senator Caraway has roundly denounced the president and declared that one of these discharged employes is to sue the chief executive for wilful and malicious slander While there is considerable doubt whether such a suit will get anywhere it certainly serve to maintain interest in the case and attract attention to what the Democrats will make a campaign issue

"MAKE HEIRS SHOW THEY DESERVE THE MONEY," SAYS ONE, TAKING JOB

By NEA Service.

CHICAGO Feb 26—Because he believes no man has a right to his fortune before he has earned it, and—

Because his pretty, demure bride inspired him to this realization after two years of high living,—

Vincent J Lamb, 20-year-old heir to a $5,000,000 fortune is working as an $18-a-week apprentice stock board market here Until he has made $10,000 by sheer earning power Lamb says he will receive no benefit from his millions

My wife has brought me to the realization that only service counts says Lamb No one should be given control of vast fortunes until the individual has proven his mettle

"Deputies of Power"

"Money means power it should be used for good But by that I don't necessarily mean unintelligent philanthropy Owners of large fortunes to my mind are merely the deputies of power held temporarily in their custody By human service they can turn that power into usefulness

That's what I'm trying to learn now—how to give service and take my place as one of the cogs in the machine

Two years ago Lamb inherited $5,000,000 from an uncle Patrick O'Connor, one time president of the Omaha Board of Trade He lived high for two years until he met Miss Grace Ivers daughter of a Denver banker

Last October the were married With marriage Lambs inspiration to earn Mrs Lamb was with him She is helping him even now by earning her own living in a Los Angeles movie studio

I have given up all my cars and am living in a furnished room says Lamb It costs me $4 a week My food costs nearly $12 And the rest I save It isn't much But at least I'm earning it

Fortune Tied Up

'That's all I'll have to live on too, for I've induced my lawyers back home to tie up every cent of my inheritance so that I can't lay my hands on a single penny until after I've pulled down the $10,000 of which I've set my mark

Of course no one can keep a wife on $18 a week So Grace will probably have to stay out on the coast until after I've started to earn more

'But she's wonderful I'll tell you I'm doing this for her I'm going to prove to her that I'm worthy of her love I'm going to be a man'

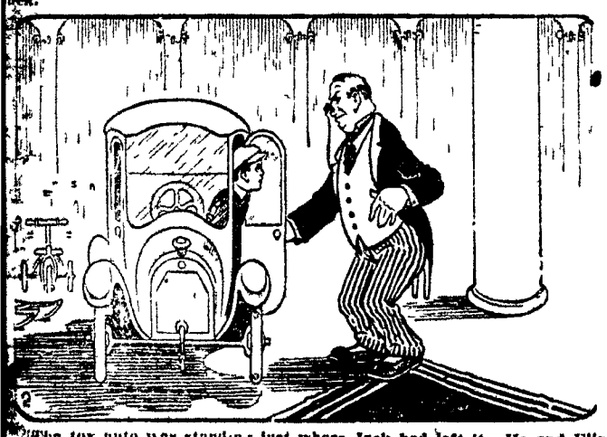
JACK DAW IN TOYLAND

By ELTON

Jack whistled for Flip. He felt very lonely with all of the toys standing perfectly still. As his faithful dog ran up and joined him, Jack decided to go back to the toy auto where he had fallen sleep. Maybe the floor-walker who ordered me out of the store will come back, thought Jack.



The toy auto was standing just where Jack had left it. He and Flip crawled inside and soon fell asleep. Jack never knew just how long he had been in dreamland before the store opened for business the next day However, he did know that someone opened the auto door and found him.

"What are you doing in this auto?" asked a voice. It was the floor-walker. "I fell asleep," replied Jack. "Well," said the floorwalker, "take your dog and run along." Jack was soon out of the wonderful toy department. In Jack Daw's next adventure he takes a trip to wonderful balloon land.

SPORT BRIEFS

NEW YORK.—The first national municipal tennis championship, planned this year as an outstanding feature of the United States Lawn Tennis Association's program for development of the game on public courts, will probably be awarded to St. Louis.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS. — Bobby Jones of Atlanta, Harvard student, will not be a member of the American golf team which will play in the British amateur championship at Deal and later in defense of the Walker cup because Harvard officials ruled he could not leave his studies.

LOS ANGELES.—Jimmy Murphy won the 250 mile automobile race at the Los Angeles speedway.

Of the forty to sixty species of grapes found in the world, more than half are natives of the North American continent.

All Major League Clubs Look To Big Season As Training Camps Open

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Heralding the approach of spring and another diamond campaign, advance caravans of nearly all of the sixteen major league baseball clubs are on their way south for the annual conditioning process. Training camps, scattered in lands of the palmetto and cactus from Florida to Catalina Island, Calif., will be in full swing for all of the clubs by the second week of March.

For the veterans, the next six weeks' or so of conditioning and exhibition pastiming will mean shedding excess poundage acquired during the winter lay-off and timbering up for competition with eager and ambitious recruits, hundreds of whom will strive for big league positions for the first time in their careers.

This rivalry for regular berths promises to be especially keen among several clubs going through a marked process of reorganization, including the Cleveland and Boston Americans, and the Brooklyn, Chicago and St. Louis Nationals.

Interest among fans is centered largely in the prospects of the New York Giant and Yankees repeating their triumphs of the past two seasons in the face of increasing strength among several of their more dangerous rivals.

Yanks and Giants Confident

While they are not discounting the opposition they will encounter this year, Managers McGraw of the Giants and Huggins of the Yankees are confident their teams will keep the National and American League pennants in the same city for the third straight year.

Both pilots declare their teams will be decidedly stronger, although they plan relatively little rebuilding. The Pittsburg Pirates, in McGraw's opinion, loom as the club the Giants must eliminate to stay at the top of the heap, while the Yankee leader expects his strongest battle from Ty Cobb's Detroit Tigers. Cincinnati, in the National, and St. Louis, in the American, are picked as the next strongest contenders by the metropolitan club managers.

McGraw has announced that he will stand pat on his 1922 championship line-up, with the possible exception of centerfield, devoting most of his attention to bolstering weaknesses in the pitching staff which nearly cost the club the pennant last season. Jimmy O'Connell, $75,000 "phenom" from San Francisco, is expected to fill the berth in midfield, but McGraw will give the veteran Casey Stengel, whose comeback was a sensation last year, and Bill Cunningham an opportunity to contest for the job with the coast youngster.

Bentley Will Help Giants

Jack Bentley, another expensive acquisition, is expected to add considerable strength to the pitching corps. Bentley starred both as a portside flinger and slugger with the Baltimore Orioles for several years, but his work with the champions will be confined to the mound, according to McGraw. The Giant leader has a dozen or more recruits from whom he hopes to weed out another twirling star. He also looks for decided improvement from his veterans—Hugh McQuillan, Jack Scott, Art Neff and Jess Barnes—besides greater effectiveness from younger moundsmen like Bill Ryan, Claude Jonnard and Virgil Barnes.

Pittsburg's veteran and hard-hitting aggregation, in McGraw's belief, will prove a formidable obstacle under the leadership of Bill McKechnie, who took the Pirate helm around mid-season last year and developed the club into a dangerous contender in the closing month of the campaign.

Cincinnati, reorganized with a brilliant young infield and good pitching, also figures strongly in McGraw's calculations, while the Chicago Cubs, with a pitching staff above the ordinary, promise to bear watching.

Yanks Pitching Strong

Huggins bases much of his confidence in 1923 prospects upon his belief that the Yankee pitching staff, the deciding factor in last year's race, will be even more consistent this year and that Babe Ruth, if he returns in 1921 form, will bolster the morale and attacking strength of the club.

The diminutive pilot figures Carl Mays and Sam Jones, whose pitching was a disappointment last season, will flash old-time form, while Bob Shawkey and Joe Bush, 1922 mainstays, will be more effective than ever. Ruth's determination to regain the home-run hitting laurels he lost last year has been demonstrated by the strict program of conditioning to which he adhered during the winter on his Massachusettes farm.

The Tigers, formidable last season, will be much stronger, according to the Yankee view, as a result of the acquisition of Del Pratt, veteran second baseman, and Rip Collins, southpaw twirler, from the Red Sox in exchange for Howard Ehmke, pitcher. Cobb has an unusual array of heavy hitters, flanked by a promising corps of young pitchers—a combination which will be hard to keep from the top.

The St. Louis Browns, unless they are strengthened in several positions, are not rated as high as last year, when they finished just a game behind the Yankees in a thrilling finish, nor as dangerous as the Tigers.

The Chicago White Sox, with a team that developed fast last year and boasted a brilliant string of young pitchers, and Connie Mack's Athletics, who are about due to emerge from the depths, may figure prominently in this season's pennant chase.

Florida is the most popular training ground this year, seven clubs choosing the Everglades state for their conditioning. Texas, Alabama and Arkansas each have two clubs in their confines, while Louisiana, Georgia and California each have one.

The list of 1923 training sites follows:

National League.

The Pittsburg Pirates properly deserve third place in the lifetime standing of the National League, as Pittsburgh has earned the decision over every club in the league over a span of 36 years with the exception of New York and Chicago. New York, Chicago and Pittsburgh are the only clubs which have won more games than they have lost. The Pirates captured 2428 games from their present opponents and lost 2157, for a percentage of .530.

Ease in defeating the St. Louis club is largely responsible for Pittsburgh's splendid showing. St. Louis won the series from the Pirates last year, but it was only the fourth time that the Cardinals had done so. In 31 year's competition between these clubs, Pittsburgh has won 24 annual series, lost four and tied three. Pittsburgh has won 381 games from St. Louis and lost only 205, for a percentage of .650. This is the highest percentage enjoyed by one National League club over another.

Pittsburgh began fattening on St. Louis as soon as the latter club reentered the National League in 1892, decisively winning the year's series in 1892 and 1893. The two clubs tied in games won and lost in 1894, after which the Pirates won in the next four years. St. Louis again tied in 1899, after which Pittsburgh set a record by beating the Cardinals for 15 successive years. It was not until 1915, when Miller Huggins raised the Cardinals to third place, that St. Louis won its first series from Pittsburgh. The Cardinals in that year won 12 games from the Smoky City clan and lost 10.

Pittsburgh especially held the heel of oppression on the prostrate Cardinals in 1907 and 1908. In each of those years the Pirates won 20 games from St. Louis and lost only two. In the six years, from 1905 to 1910, inclusive, Pittsburgh won an even 100 games from the Cardinals and lost only 20.

The oddest feature revealed in the annual series of National League clubs is the thirty-six-year warfare between the Pirates and the Boston club. After Pittsburgh came into the National League, Boston held supremacy over the newcomers for 13 successive seasons. In 1900 the tide turned and Pittsburgh reversed the order, by defeating Boston in the next 13 year. In 1914, the year of Stalling's miracle team in Boston, the Braves again came into the ascendency, and for the next six years defeated Pittsburgh. Beginning with 1919, the Pirates resumed their supremacy and have now defeated Boston for four straight years. Should Pittsburgh win from Boston in 1923 and 1924, it would complete the most remarkable coincidence in baseball. In 1909, the year the Pirates won their last pennant, they won 20 games from Boston and lost one.

The Pirates came into the National League in 1887. With the exception of the Brooklyn Club, they are the youngest club now in the circuit, though Cincinnati and St. Louis re-entered the league since Pittsburgh's entry. It is interesting to note that Pittsburgh took the place of Kansas City in the National League. After the Kansas City franchise was declared defunct, Pittsburgh transferred its American Association franchise to the National League.

Pittsburgh has won four National League championships and one world's championship; all achieved during the era in which Fred Clarke was playing manager of the Pirate squad. The club has been the runner-up seven times, five of them under Clarke's management.

The composite record of Pittsburgh's yearly series follows:

Club.	Y'rs	Ser's W.	Ser's L.	Ser's T'd
St. Louis	31	24	4	3
Cincinnati	33	20	9	4
Philadelphia	35	20	11	2
Brooklyn	33	17	14	2
Boston	36	18	13	5
Chicago	36	15	17	4
New York	36	13	18	5

Richards' Dope On Tennis Runs True to Form

By BILLY EVANS

Vincent Richards, famous tennis star, has started 1923 in championship style.

Richards is one of Bill Tilden's most dangerous rivals. He looms up as one of the select few who have a chance of dethroning the titleholder.

Recently, in an article in which he discussed Tilden's future, Richards emphasized the fact that Tilden would suffer a number of setbacks before he regained old-time form.

Tilden recently made his first appearance of the year in New York. It was the first opportunity eastern tennis experts had of sizing up the champion's game since he sustained the injury that necessitated the amputation of the end of the middle finger of his racquet hand.

Tilden Deciptively Defeated

Tilden made his metropolitan debut of 1923 pitted against Vincent Richards in an exhibition indoor match. Richards won in two straight sets, 11-9, 11-9.

Richards was great in victory, and Tilden equally great in defeat. Eastern experts seem satisfied that Tilden will be as good as ever inside of three months. They insist that his play has lost none of its brilliancy, and the master mind, of course, is still there.

All of which proves that Richards sized up the situation pretty well, in a recent signed article, when he told the world that before the summer was over Tilden would again prove his mastery of the courts.

Richards, however, predicted defeat for Tilden in his early matches. It is a rather strange coincidence that he also stated that he expected to make all kinds of trouble for the champion, and would be much disappointed if he didn't score several victories before the close of the year.

The dicisive defeat of Tilden by Richards in the first clash of the year on the indoor courts at New York makes Richards stand out as prominently as a writer on tennis as a player. His tennis dope certainly has run true to form.

More than 1,000,000 years would be required for all the water of the earth's seas to pour over the falls of Niagara, according to one statistician.

THRILLING FINISH AT LOS ANGELES GIVES VICTORY TO MURPHY

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 26.—A car's length gave Jimmy Murphy victory in the 250 mile national championship automobile race—the first motor car speed contest of 1923—at the Los Angeles speedway yesterday and put Bennett Hill in second place.

Hill received $5,000 and 260 points toward the 1923 championship while Murphy took $9,000 and 500 points.

To get the checkered flag ahead of Hill, Murphy was forced to set what was said to be a new world's record for the distance—an average speed of 115.65 miles an hour, and both Murphy and Hill broke the former record of 114.6 miles an hour, set by Murphy on the same course December 3.

Murphy made one lap at the rate of 116.5 miles an hour.

Ralph de Palma after driving more than half of the race in second place, was forced into the pits with two blowout tires. By this time he lost two full laps, but finally succeeded in reaching and holding third place, winning $3,000 and 140 points.

Eddie Hearne was fourth, Frack Elliott fifth, Tommy Milton sixth, Dario Resta seventh, Art Klein eighth, W. De Cleavy Pooty Morton ninth, and Jerry Wonderlich tenth.

Ricky Strong for Collegians; Digs Up Many Stars

When a fellow has a hobby it is hard to tear it away from him. There is Branch Rickey, who was baseball coach for the University of Michigan long before he became manager of the Cardinals, and a hobby with Rickey is college ball players.

A brief sketch over his career shows that he does not believe the bridge between the college field and the major league circuit is too long to cover.

On the 1923 Cardinals are found Pitcher Dyer of the University of Texas, Pitcher Stuart of Ohio State and Catcher Harry McCurdy of the University of Illinois. Catcher Harry Vick, with the University of Illinois last season, snared by Rickey last summer, has just been farmed to a minor league club by Rickey.

Johnny Lavan, a big league shortstop for 10 years, now with the Cardinals, was with Rickey at the University of Michigan. And let us not overlook the distinguished George Sisler, who hopped from the Michigan frat houses to the American League. Further back there is Perrill Pratt, who agreed to join the St. Louis Browns while attending the University of Alabama.

Ernest Koob, a kid southpaw, who was a sensation for two years in the American League was plucked by Rickey from Kalamazoo University. Wayne Wright, at present a member of the St. Louis Browns' staff, was found by Rickey at Ohio State when he was business manager of the Browns in 1916.

While major league phenoms also grow in minor league fields Rickey is one big league manager who does not let his eyes miss the collegiate territory.

FIRST PRACTICE SESSION BY CARDINALS IN FLORIDA

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 26.—The first practice session of the season was on the program for the St. Louis Cardinals today when they reached their spring training camp at Bradentown, Fla., according to dispatches received here. Approximately 40 players, including regulars, recruits and players belonging to the Syracuse, Fort Smith and Houston clubs, which are Cardinal farms, were in the vanguard arriving at the camp. It was said to be the largest vanguard of players that ever opened training in the history of baseball. Acting Manager Burt Shotten said he plans to give the players two workouts daily.

It was announced the vanguard will be augmented en route, and when camp is reached tomorrow morning, more than 20 men are to be on hand.

BASEBALLING IN JAPAN! GEORGE KELLY HERO

Waite Hoyt, star pitcher of the New York Americans and world series hero, who recently returned with the Oriental baseball expedition and has told his story on the trip to Billy Evans of NEA Service.

Baseballing in Japan! It furnished more thrills than a world series for the fortunate players on the selected teams of big leaguers who recently journeyed to the orient to promote the national game and international good will. The Times today presents the first of a series of first-hand stories of the monumental expedition as told to Billy Evans of NEA Service.

By WAITE HOYT
Pitcher for the New York Americans and World Series Hero

George Kelly of the New York Giants was the outstanding hero of the baseball expedition to the orient from the Japanese viewpoint.

The Japs to the small of Giante Kelly, six-feet four inches, was regarded as a superman, even in cities and villages. Around the hotel or at the railroad stations Kelly was always the center of attraction.

In a baseball uniform Kelly looked even taller and when he and Johnny Lavan, who was playing short for our team, held a conference at bat ways got a big hand. Lavan and Kelly were the Matt and Jeff combination of the time. Those two famous comic characters are as well known in Japan as in this country.

Aside from the hitting ability of the Americans, the Jap marvelled at our long-distance throwers and the accuracy with which the outfielders could get the ball to the plate.

Kelly has a great arm. His throwing ability added to his size, also helped to make him a big hero in the eyes of the Jap fans.

Even more interesting to some of the fans than the game itself was Kelly's exhibition of long-distance throwing. This was an added feature before each game.

Standing in the outfield at the rear fence in the park, or at the home plate, Kelly would make several long distance throws after getting his arm properly warmed up. On every occasion his final throw would be out of the confines of the park.

Some of the Japs could be seen practicing such a feat. Their world caps put over. Not quite the ability to do the trick made him a big favorite.

The throwing arm of the Jap is a peculiar affair. From short distances it is not good shoot on the ball. The players are able to get the ball across the diamond as fast as our players, and most of the pitchers have better than the average speed, but they are unable to make the ball carry any great distance.

Baseball, by the way, will continue to remain a favorite in Japan for some time. He was accompanied by a movie picture concern over there to place the leading role in a film featuring baseball. Kelly's great popularity with the fans won for him the leading role.

He is the hero, of course. After being kidnaped by some Jap bandits so that he will not be able to play in the big game of the year, Kelly knocks out eight Jap guards, making good his escape, and arrives at the park in the ninth inning just in time to go to bat in a pinch and make a home run with the bases filled, winning the ball game and the heroine as well.

It is possible the picture will also be shown in this country. Kelly will always be welcome in Japan.

WHITE SOX NEGOTIATING FOR STAR RIGHT HANDER

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—As the advance guard of the Chicago American League baseball club prepared to depart tonight for its spring training quarters at Seguin, Texas, Harry Grabiner, secretary of the club, announced that negotiations are pending for the purchase of a star right-handed pitcher, now owned by one of the eastern major league clubs.

As most of the players composing the White Sox vanguard already have departed from their homes direct to the training camp, the party leaving here tonight will be small. For a few days the White Sox will remain in Marlin Springs and then proceed to Seguin.

NEW YORK NATIONALS DEPART FOR SAN ANTONIO

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—This is exodus day for the New York Nationals. With the departure of a local delegation headed by Frankie Frisch, Giants in all parts of the country entrained for San Antonio, Texas, to train for another world's championship.

A chair of alcoholic research is to be established at one of the Japanese universities.

CUBS BUILD NEW PARK; WILL HAVE LARGEST SINGLE DECK GRANDSTAND IN THE COUNTRY

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—Chicago will have the largest single deck baseball stand in the country when the new Cubs' park is completed for the opening of the 1923 season. The work is rapidly nearing completion at a cost of nearly $400,000.

When finished the park will have a seating capacity of approximately 31,000, compared with the previous capacity of 17,500. There will be 9,277 box seats, 16,572 grand stand seats and about 5,000 bleacher seats.

The old steel and concrete stand, which was erected in 1914 by the Chicago Federal League club and taken over by the Cubs with the absorption of the Federals in 1916, was cut into three parts. The side sections were moved back while the central section was left as the grand stand, and the space between the stands was filled in with new sections.

The new grandstand, which will occupy one square block. There will be twenty entrances, and thirty ticket windows. Heretofore the park had only one steel bleacher seats, but under the reconstruction there will be bleacher seats in both right and left fields.

With the enlargement of the stand, also came an enlargement of the playing field. The diamond was moved back sixty-eight feet and then turned fore to the north west. The distance from the home plate to the center field is 440 feet. The depth of the playing field at the foul lines will be about 315 feet.

The cost of the stand at the time of its erection was approximately $250,000. The plant exclusive of the stand, will now be worth approximately $700,000.

A sixteen bungalow will be built in the northwest corner of the site to house the group of concessionaires, a bank and offices.

ARCHER QUINT TO SEEK REVENGE IN GAME HERE MONDAY

Monday night's basket ball game between the Coyotes and Archer City, while it will have no bearing on the interscholastic race, is expected to be one of the hardest fought contests of the season here. The Coyotes defeated Archer City in the semi-finals for the district championship week before last, in a game that was the most bitterly contested of the entire meet, and the Archer quint would no doubt like mightily to get some measure of revenge.

The game will be called at 8 o'clock. Proceeds will go to defray the expenses of the Coyote squad on its trip to Austin Wednesday for the state tournament.

Long Shots in High Favor With Big Ten Basketball Teams

It has long been a theory in basket ball that a minutes which depends on team play and combination work to carry the ball down the floor for a close shot at the cage will consistently beat an outfit that overlooks the passing end of the game to a certain extent, and resorts mainly to long tosses for its points.

That theory, of course, still holds true. That's easy to be seen. It couldn't be otherwise. For it's far easier to drop the ball through the hoop at close range than it is from a distance. In the latter instance the element of luck plays too big a part.

However, the old theory doesn't work as well nowadays. Simply because the defensive end of play has grown more efficient, and the guarding has become so close that it is well nigh impossible to pass the ball down court in order to obtain a "clear" for the mesh work. Getting the leather down underneath the basket is almost out of the question.

Consider the recent Western Conference game between Indiana and Illinois, which the former won, 32 to 24. In that tilt, the two teams combined had exactly 13 shots at the hoop, of which only 2 resulted in goals. Out of the 13 attempts, but 8 of them were close shots, and 22 medium heaves. Needless than 31 long tosses were tried. All told, 23 field baskets were scored with 12 coming on shots from near the cage, four on medium throws, and six on "long" tosses.

Obviously short shots always return the largest rewards, but the above figures go to prove that under the present rules the guarding is so close and the players "cover up" so well that "distant" tosses are to a great extent the only alternatives. And as in the Hoosier Sucker embroglio, when but six goals out of 81 long attempts were made, the "angel" heaves usually result disastrously.

There seems to be much food for thought in this angle of the game.

The signal for battle of the Romans consisted of the unfurling of a red flag; the white flag has always been a sign of truce or peace.

FIVE-ROOM HOME FOR $6845

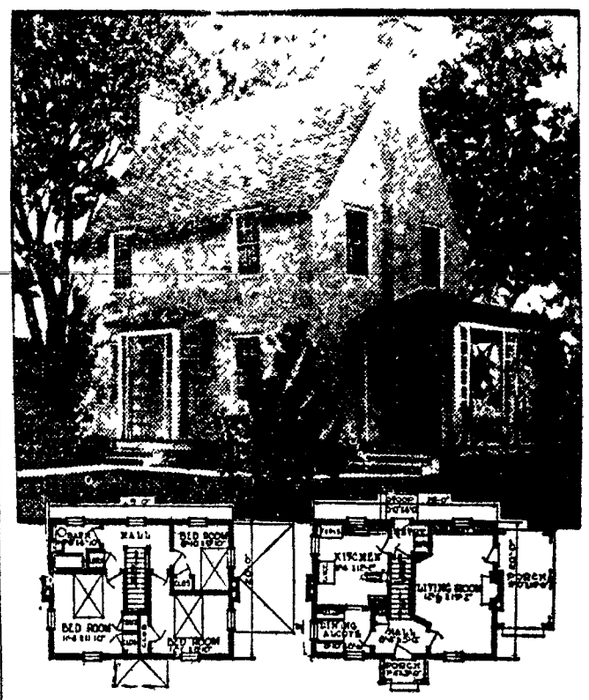

Photo and plans, furnished by the Curtis Service Bureau, Clinton, Iowa, for a five-room home.

Three bedrooms in a five room house is an unusual feature of this attractive home The greatest housing capacity is possible because a dining alcove is substituted for the regular dining room

In other ways also this plan demonstrates the kind of economy Ordinary material are used in stock sizes Even the woodwork is in stock designs that harmonize with the development of the whole building Stucco generally considered an economical material for construction and requires almost no upkeep Note the plain outlines of the house and the roof

These considerations make for weather-tightness and economy

Paneled Wainscot

A vestibule and doored stair increases the winter comfort and the year round privacy of the house The long living room occupies the right side of the house adjoining the porch An outstanding feature of this room is a paneled wainscot of stained oak This is a well treatment that is not overly expensive and never needs replacement

The living room cannot help being homelike even when vacant for it also has a room end of book case and window seat and a homey fireplace opposite which is an interesting alcove on the inside wall

This house is estimated by the Curtis Service Bureau, Clinton Iowa to cost about $6 845 This includes heating, wiring and plumbing although the sum may vary slightly in different parts of the country

Whitehill and Haid of the McCoy tract east of Lake Wichita about three miles spudded in their No 2 well Monday in an effort to bring in a producer from the sand at 660 feet which was encountered unexpectedly in their No 1 test on this tract several weeks ago and which at that time aroused a great deal of interest in this section of the county

This sand which showed for a small shallow producer was penetrated far into which resulted in water trouble and the owners were unable to save it Two or more wells will be drilled within 3 000 feet of No 1 and will be drilling by March 2

COTTON MARKET

New York Cotton

NEW YORK, Feb 26—There were further reactions in the cotton market during today's early trading Liverpool was relatively easy and the opening here was at a decline of nine to 15 points under scattered realizing and southern selling. Trade interests were moderate buyers and brokers with Japanese connections bought May delivery. July was sold against the May purchases, however, and the general list soon showed net losses of about nine to 16 points with March selling off to 29.48 and July at 28.69 during the early trading

The early selling orders seemed to be readily absorbed around the initial level of prices and the market firmed up later in the morning on covering, re-buying and a moderate trade demand, which was accompanied by bullish reports of the southern spot markets and rumors that some of the cotton to be taken up on March contracts here was to be shipped out to southern mills May contracts sold up to 29 78 and October 26 00 making net advances of about 11 to 23 points on the active months but there was more realizing around these figures and prices eased off. Trading was quieter around mid-day with May selling at about 29 66 and October 25 88, or net unchanged to 9 points.

The market was rather easier during the early afternoon under continued realizing or selling for a reaction which was probably encouraged by reports of an easier tone in the stock market. May eased off to 29.56 and October to 25 80, or one to eight points net lower, and prices were within a point or two of that level around 2 00 o'clock.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS Feb 26—The indifferent showing of Liverpool and reports of less business in Manchester caused a drop of eight to 13 points in the price of cotton around the opening today Support was offered at the decline because of complaints of too much rain over considerable areas in the western half of the belt At the end of the first half hour prices were two to eight points over Saturday's closing May after trading down to 29 02 rose to 29 20

Reports that spot cotton had sold in this market on the basis of 30 cents a pound for middling and claims from the interior of a good demand at higher prices were a further support to the market and late in the morning prices were 15 to 27 points higher than the closing quotations of last week. May trading up to 29 30

Reports that the British had withdrawn their ships from Smyrna harbor these reports coming over private wires seemed to be construed in an unfavorable way and the market fell off to levels about five points under last weeks close At 1 30 o'clock May was at 29 16 with the active positions four to five points net up

GRAIN AND PRODUCE

CHICAGO, Feb 26—Liberal selling of May delivery had a bearish effect on the whole wheat market today during early dealings Houses with eastern connections were the chief sellers Bears emphasized the view that there was a super-abundance of supplies, with Argentina Australia and India competing for the world market The opening, which ranged from ¼ to ½c lower, May $1 17¼ to ⅜ and July $1 13⅝ to ¾ was followed by a moderate further setback

Shorts were buyers on the decline and 500 000 bushels were said to have been purchased for Europe Rallies however, lacked force The close was unsettled, ¼c to 1¼c lower, May $1 17¼@⅜ and July $1 13⅛@¼

Increasing receipts weakened corn and oats After opening unchanged to ⅛c lower May 74⅛ to ¼c, corn continued to sag

Later the market recovered somewhat with wheat The close was unsettled at ¼c to ⅝c net decline May 73⅝@¾c

Oats started ⅛c off to ⅛c up, May 44⅛ to ⅜c and later showed losses for all the active months.

Provisions were easier with grain despite steadiness of hog values.

Butter unchanged, creamery extras 52½. Eggs lower firsts 34@⅜ extras 52½.

STOCKS AND FINANCIAL

NEW YORK, Feb 26—Opening prices in today's stock market were irregular but the main tendency continued upward. Good buying power was noted in such dividend paying rails as New York Central, Atchison, New Orleans, Texas and Mexico, Southern Pacific and Great Northern preferred, all of which moved to higher ground with such industrial favorites as U. S. Steel common American Woolen and Studebaker Delaware and Hudson, selling ex dividend 2½ per cent, recovered the dividend on the first sale. Chemical shares were heavy.

Atlantic Coast Line advanced two points to 127, a new top, and then dropped back 1½. New Orleans, Texas and Mexico extended its gain to 1½ points and Northern Pacific and Union Pacific moved fractionally. Maxwell Motors A jumped 2½ points and Stromberg one. Eastman Kodak gained 1½ points. There were a few conspicuous weak spots, notably Royal Dutch, American Agricultural Chemical preferred and Nash Motors, all off one to 1½ points. Foreign exchanges opened easier.

Sales by discouraged holders and operations on the short side of the market put the level of prices considerably lower in the afternoon, even the investment railroads and steels turning heavy. Liggett & Myers dropped seven points, Otis Elevator five, Associated Oil three and Corn Products, General Asphalt, Baldwin, Coca-Cola, American Ice, Atlantic Coast Line, American Smelting, Crucible Steel and Porto Rican Tobacco two to 2½

The closing was irregular Sales approximated 1,050 000 shares.

MANDATORY WRIT ISSUED BY COURT ON ROAD PETITION

Judge H R Wilson of the 30th district court Monday morning issued a mandatory writ of injunction to J. L. Haggin of Clay County against the county commissioners of that county The writ is a temporary one and requires the commissioners to accept the petition of 85 signers calling for an election on a road matter The case will be heard at Henrietta Thursday morning.

The petitioner Haggin presented the petition asking that a special election for road bonds be called for the paving of the road from Henrietta to Ringgold The court refused the petition and did not order an election, on the grounds that an election had been called for bonds on the road from the Wichita County line to Montague County, and further, because the Henrietta-Ringgold road was a part of the cross country road

An election has been ordered for March to 20 to vote bonds for the paving of the road from Wichita to Montague County.

FARM AND RESIDENCE TRACTS TO BE OFFERED

Some Already Being Purchased; Iowa Park Road Also to Be Scene of Additions.

As the big Wichita irrigation project nears completion, the prospect of an unlimited water supply and an intensive farming district surrounding Wichita Falls has become a tangible fact in the minds of Wichita Falls citizens and a rapidly increasing number are becoming interested in the possibility of owning a few acres, or many acres, as the case may be far enough out of the city to be free from the dust and grime and noises of the town and to take advantage of fresh air, plenty of room, gardens, fruit, a cow, chickens and the numerous attractions offered by a home in the country.

In view of the demand which has been growing steadily for the past several months, a number of new additions some joining the city limits and others as much as seven and eight miles out, have been placed on the market with plans being worked out for a good many more to be offered later in the spring.

These additions and tracts of land comprise a total of several thousand acres and are cut into blocks of from less than an acre to 50 or more acres each, meeting the demands of the man on a salary who wants to give his family the advantages of country life as well as the head of the largest oil corporation who desires a country estate, or the progressive farmer who sees the possibilities of this location as an irrigated farm and truck section.

Among the most popular and attractive possibilities for country home sites are the additions west of town on the Seymour road. Some of these are already on the market and others will be opened in a few months.

Immediately west of the Chenault home in this section an addition of 17 building sites of approximately an acre each is now on the market. A boulevarded drive and a park with a community swimming pool are features planned for this addition.

A mile west of the city limits, a tract of 300 acres has been cut into from 10 to 40 acre tracts. Much of this land will be under irrigation and several pieces have already been hold. There is every assurance that city conveniences will be extended to this section as soon as there is sufficient development to warrant it.

Far enough out for a real farm home, another 300 acres has been cut up into 5 to 15 acre tracts and will soon be on the market. Plans are being drawn for an ideal farm home with all modern conveniences enjoyed in a home in town, to be built and offered for inspection by the promoters of this addition.

On the Iowa Park road which has the advantage of already being paved, land joining the city limits is now in the market in five and 10 acre tracts. Every block of this land will face either on the paved road or a 40 foot graded road, according to the present owners, who further stated that an electric light line is already on part of this addition with every indication for gas, soon.

Further out on the highway, land in much larger pieces can be had, some with restrictions and some without. Several tracts have already been sold, out of what is known as the John Hirschi lands, more than half way to Iowa Park

On the Henrietta road a number of small home sites have been sold ranging from two acres up. This land will be under irrigation and much of it is on an eminence affording beautiful building locations.

Attractive building lots for suburban homes on the lake road are on the market and there are a number of additions within the city limits, yet far enough out to afford many of the advantages of the country, with all of the city conveniences.

The building boom which has swept the east has certainly hit Wichita Falls and local architects and building contractors report that a large number of new homes are to be built within the next few months, ranging from modest bungalows to palatial residences, both in the city and in the suburban districts.

A drive over the city now, shows building development in all sections and with the coming of spring with its assurance of good weather and the increasing prosperity in all lines of business the coming year bids fair to be one of unprecedented activity in both urban and rural development.

SAYS PROPHECY IS BIBLE'S ACID TEST, PROOFS ARE CITED

"We have also a more sure word of prophecy, whereunto ye do well that ye take heed, as unto a light that shineth in a dark place" (2 Pet. 1:19), constituted the text of Pastor George W. Spies, in a sermon on "Bible Prophecy, the Acid Test of Divine Inspiration of the Scriptures," preached at the Labor Temple on Sunday night. He said in part:

"Many a reader of the Bible, like Thomas Paine, Robert Ingersoll, Voltaire and Hume, has discarded and despised the prophecies of the Bible as clumsy guess work of man's production, and has read that precious Book only to find evidence with which to refute its claims. But the author of the Bible issues a challenge to the skeptic, by the acceptance of which he may test his contention concerning that book. And many an honest skeptic has found, to his great amazement and deep chagrin, overwhelming evidence of its authencity in a study of the Bible itself.

"Thousands of sincere skeptics have been dumbfounded and overwhelmed at the scores, yea hundreds, of minute, fearless Bible prophecies which reach down through the years, not a few, but hundreds and even thousands of years into the future. With luminous strokes of infinite knowledge these mouthpieces of God, the ancient prophets, make their unqualified declarations. And how have the facts of history responded to the voice of prophecy? In every history of those times, many of them written by skeptics themselves, we read in marvelous detail the facts which multiply evidence by the volume that these predictions were true.

"'I am God, and there is none like me, declaring the end from the beginning, and from ancient times the things that are not yet done' (Isa. 46:9, 10). 'Produce your cause, saith the Lord, bring forth your strong reasons, saith the king of Jacob. Let them bring them forth and declare unto us khat shall happen; * * * show us things to come. Declare the things that are to come hereafter, that we may know that ye are Gods (Isa. 41:21-24). And even Christ Himself said to His disciples, 'I tell you before it come to pass, that, when it is come to pass, ye may know that I am he' (John 13:19).

"The acid test of the truthfulness of the Bible is contained in its prophetic utterances And that book repeatedly stakes its claim to credence and authority upon the truthfulness of its prophecies and challenges the world to disprove them The scripture cited above claims unequivocally that the prophecies of the Bible contain the only genuine prophecies in the world. And with the libraries of the world open to us, it is a comparatively easy matter to test these claims. No other book in the world has been able to stand the test of uttering specific prophecies. Out of the thousands of books printed in hundreds of languages, the Bible alone will bear the test of such an investigation.

"Isaiah, Jeremiah and Ezekiel have spoken of almost every known country from their day down to the present time. Their daring declarations almost take away one's breath. Not like the Delphic oracles are their specific utterances. They burn all bridges behind them. If the things predicted did not come to pass, there is no way of explaining away these unqualified statements.

"When Babylon, for example, was at the height of its glory, Jeremiah foretold its overthrow (Jer. 50, 51). Isaiah described the manner of its accomplishment 176 years before the event occurred and mentioned by name Cyrus, who was to fulfill this prophecy as the agent of Providence, 113 years before Cyrus was born (Isa. 45:1-5). Jeremiah states that the overthrow of Babylon would occur in the days of Nebuchadnezzar's grandson, which was Belshazzar (Jer. 25.6, 7). And the same prophet states that the overthrow would be preceded by two rumors that would come to Babylon in successive years before that strongly fortified city would fall (Jer. 51:46).

"The prophecies of Daniel, chapters two and seven, give us an outline history in advance of the rise and fall of kingdoms from the days of Daniel down to our own time Four universal empires were, according to this prediction, to successively rule the world And in accordance with this prediction, Babylon, Medo-Persia, Greece and Rome respectively appeared upon the national stage of action. How did Daniel know that there would be just four great universal monarchies that would rule the world down to the close of time? And how could he mention by name in advance Medo-Persia and Greece as the two nations that would successively follow Babylon, when Greece was not more than 200 years in the future? (See Daniel 8:20, 21).

"Describing the fourth kingdom Rome, Daniel said of it, 'The kingdom shall be divided,' 'The ten horns out of this kingdom are ten kings that shall arise' (Dan. 2 31, 7:24). And true to the prophetic declaration, between the years 351 A. D. and 476 A D, the Roman empire was divided into just ten kingdoms, as foretold by the prophet Daniel about 1,000 years before And the historian of today says, 'Amidst unceasing and almost countless fluctuations, the kingdoms of modern Europe have from their birth to the present day averaged ten in number. They have never since the breaking up of old Rome been united into one single empire; they have never formed one whole even like the United States'

"Daniel described an unsuccessful attempt at uniting these ten kingdoms, he says 'They shall mingle themselves with the seed of men, but they shall not cleave one to another' (Dan 2 43) For 300 years the royal families of Europe have intermarried, with a view to uniting more closely the kingdoms of Europe, until at the beginning of the world war more than three-fourths of Europe's royalty was related to Queen Victoria Put the prophecy says, 'They shall not cleave one to another' And this prophetic declaration has proved to be stronger than all the armies and navies of Europe. Attempts to unite Europe by force of arms have been made by Charlemagne, Charles V, Louis XIV, Napoleon and finally by Emperor William of Germany. But these great generals were all fighting against fate. God had foreseen the final outcome, and had recorded it in the prophecy, and no other result was possible. His unalterable decree had said, 'They shall not cleave one to another.'

"Having introduced the divided state of the Roman empire, fully accomplished in 476 A. D, the prophet continues: 'In the days of these kings shall the God of heaven set up a kingdom which shall never be destroyed; it shall break in pieces and consume all these kingdoms, and it shall stand forever' (Dan. 2:35, 44). This verse foretells the establishment of another universal kingdom, a fifth, namely, the kingdom of God. This kingdom is to overthrow and supplant all existing earthly kingdoms, and is to stand forever. This accomplished, the kingdoms of this world will have become the kingdoms of our Lord and of his Christ, and He shall reign forever."
